Strikes Spread, Bring New Chaos in France

Million Walk Off Jobs; No End in Sight

Utilities Paralyzed; Airports Swamped By Stranded Tourists

PARIS (AP) — France's growing general strike pushed the nation deeper and deeper in chaos today with no end in sight, but multi-millionaire Premier Joseph Laniel stuck by his economy guns.

Furious at the government's plans to balance its budget by trimming payrolls and upping the retirement age for civil servants, more than a million railwaymen, miners and government workers kept up their indefinite walkout.

Railroads, mines, public utilities, government services, posts, telephone and telegraphs were all paralyzed or hit hard.

The Socialist Workers Force (FO) called on 850,000 white collar workers—doctors, dentists, lawyers and office employes—to join the strikers for 24 hours tomorrow.

Paris subways and buses halted late last night for 24 hours.

Disgusted tourists fled the strike-bound country. With trains and buses halted, every outgoing plane was jammed. Shipping lines scurried for special buses to take their passengers to channel ports, and to collect arrivals.

The American Express and Cook's travel agency were besieged with travel applicants, all wanting out. Many vacationers were running out of money; the communications strike kept them from getting more from home.

Foreigners planning to visit France soon rearranged their itineraries. Other West European countries got ready for a bonanza of unexpected business. France's tourist industry faced huge losses.

Laniel remained grim but calm, to all outward appearances. Showing no signs of weakening, he planned a broadcast appeal to the nation tonight.

His aides talked themselves hoarse, trying to convince union leaders their fears of the proposed government decrees were unfounded. To all indications the unionists were unconvinced, and the strikes were expected to spread.

The government called on troops to man trucks and buses to help with the transportation crisis, and some troops also worked on the piled-up mails. All of them made little headway against the confusion.

The strike wave began last week when non-Communist postal, telephone and telegraph employes quit, saying they would stay out until Laniel abandoned his then only rumored retrenchment plans.

The Socialist FO, backed by the Communist-controlled CGT (General Confederation of Labor) and the Christian Trades Federation brought the striking total to two million with a 24 to 48-hour walkout last Friday and Saturday.

The Red CGT called this week's outbreak, tacking on demands for general salary increases and the ouster of what it termed Laniel's "reactionary" Cabinet. Non-Communist unions were quick to support the strike calls

Both Communists and Socialists urged the recall of Parliament, now vacationing until October.

LOVE'S A HOWL. Peter Fitzgerald finds his 11-month-old daughter, Kathleen, too much for a Korean veteran to handle and passes the baby back to his wife in a hurry. Fitzgerald, one of the 1,382 troops arriving in New York on the transport Marine Carp from Korea, met his daughter for the first time, only to find out she doesn't like strange men.

More Yanks Freed on 8th Day of Swap

100 Returnees Said In Good Condition; ROK's Are 'Pitiful'

PANMUNJOM (AP)—One hundred hale and happy Americans streamed through the Bamboo Curtain at Panmunjom today to start the second dramatic week of Korean War prisoner exchange.

But their South Korean comrades again came home in wretched shape. Pitiful living skeletons were passed tenderly from Communist ambulances to litters carried by Allied soldiers.

Four hundred in all got their freedom during the day: 100 Americans, 25 British, 25 Turks, 250 South Koreans.

The Communists promised to hand over 75 Americans, 75 British and 250 South Koreans—all able-bodied—at Thursday's swap, the ninth since the exchange started. This will boost the number of Americans liberated to 823 of 3,313 the Reds said they held.

A big transport carrying the first of the freed prisoners lands at Travis Air Force Base near San Francisco today. Fourteen seriously ill former prisoners and three neuro-psychiatric cases were reported aboard.

After transfer to Letterman Army Hospital in San Francisco, the men will be moved to hospitals nearest their homes or best suited to handle their ailments.

And 328 healthy ex-POWs were enroute home aboard the transport General Walker, which left Korea Tuesday for the two-week journey.

Another 60 liberated Americans, classed as sick and wounded, were aboard the hospital ship Haven in Inchon harbor on Korea's west coast. The Haven's departure date has not been announced.

The Reds were 2 hours and 25 minutes late in making the last delivery Wednesday of 25 Americans and 25 British. It was the first flaw in an otherwise smooth operation.

The Communists said the reason for the delay was that they had been unable to get men from Camp 1 at Changsong to the Kaesong collecting center just north of Pan-

Earthquakes Rock Greek Islands Fourth Successive Day; Toll Mounts Steadily

WRECKAGE OF TRUCK AND CABOOSE. These are the smoldering ruins of a trailer-truck and a Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad caboose which collided on Route 224, about 10 miles east of Youngstown. Donald Keasly, 27, of Marwood, Pa., driver of the truck, was burned to death after he was trapped in the burning vehicle (center). The conductor aboard the caboose was burned, and was reported in fair condition.

At Least 150 Known Dead; May Hit 400

Government Rushes Aid; U.S. Dispatches Air Relief Mission

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Strong earthquakes continued to shake Greece's Ionian Sea islands for the fourth successive day today and the toll of casualties and damage mounted steadily.

Official reports last night placed the quake toll then at 150 dead but survivors predicted it would top 400.

As the Greek government rushed aid, U. S. Air Force units across the Mediterranean in Tripoli readied helicopters to drop food and medical supplies on isolated villages in the stricken islands.

Welfare Minister Constantine Adamopoulos, touring the stricken areas off the west-central Greek Coast, advised the government he had found "unprecedented tragedy and damage."

The official count of dead and injured lagged far behind unofficial tallies. Many victims were still buried under masses of rubble.

Prime Minister Alexander Papagos promised all possible government aid would be sped to homeless survivors.

Kefallinia and its neighboring islands of the west-central Greek coast have been rocked by a wave of recurring quakes since Monday. The fourth tremor in three days shook the area last night.

Scattered and fragmentary reports told of whole towns being destroyed, of survivors living in the open and short of food.

The governor's office of Kefallinia appealed for helicopters to fly doctors, nurses and medical supplies to the stricken islands. It described the situation as "hopeless."

Reports said fears of new quakes kept unhurt inhabitants from searching the wreckage of their towns and villages for dead and injured.

The quakes knocked out most communications with the islands but witnesses reaching the mainland said the town of Samis, on Kefallinia, had been completely wiped out. Samis was an important center in ancient Greek days.

The witnesses told of house-sized boulders crushing buildings in the town of 15,000 as though they had been matchboxes and described pathetic scenes of parents searching in the rubble for missing children.

The survivors of Samis, they said, have fled the town and are living without shelter in the open country.

All buildings in the port of Ithaca, on nearby Ithaca Island, were reported destroyed. The island was legendary home of the Homeric greek hero Ulysses. The port has a population of 8,400.

The main port of the island of Zakinthas, a town of 11,315 persons, was reported 75 per cent destroyed. First scanty accounts said, however, that only 5 persons were killed and 35 injured in the town because the inhabitants had warning and fled to the country.

Fears were expressed for the fate of other communities in the back country of the rocky islands. Many of these have no quick means of communications with the outside under normal conditions. There has been no news from them since early Tuesday.

DIES AT CAMP

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Clyde Wendell of Bellevue, Ohio, was found dead of a heart attack this morning at Camp Sycher, where she and the Rev. Mr. Wendell, an Evangelical-United Brethren pastor, were attending meetings of the Ohio Camp Meeting Association.

Work With Reds? Never!

Rhee Rejects Possibility Of Coalition Government

SEOUL (AP)—Syngman Rhee today declared South Korea will never agree to a coalition government with Communists in the North as a means of unifying Korea.

The fiery South Korean President said in an interview:

"Under no circumstances will I even listen to the suggestion of coalition with the Communists."

At the same time, Rhee reiterated that South Korea will go it alone if the impending Korean political conference fails within 90 days to solve the explosive problem of unification.

"We shall do anything we can possibly do to restore the unification of our country," the 78-year-old patriot said, adding:

"And we shall act whether friendly nations help us or not."

Rhee said he felt "nothing will be accomplished" at the peace conference, scheduled to begin by Oct. 27.

"Since 1945," he said, "Americans have tried a hundred ways to come ot agreement with the Communists. They have talked for two years just to stop the fighting."

The U. N. General Assembly will meet this week to select the site and makeup of the conference. Ceylon was named as a possible site.

"I cannot approve of Ceylon," Rhee said, because of its closeness to India, a nation he has labeled pro-Communist, and because of British influence in the island.

"Countries that have pro-Communist policies can be of little help to us," Rhee said, adding that he expected his main aid toward unification from the United States.

"We have endured insults from England and I have asked my government to ignore them. I do not wish under any circumstances, however, to hurt the feelings of the men of the British Commonwealth who have fought here in Korea to defend our free nation against Communist aggression."

U.S. Studying Legal Aspects Of Red Holdout

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. officials seem to feel a Communist refusal to return war prisoners convicted of "crimes" would violate the Korean truce agreement as well as the Geneva convention.

Secretary of State Dulles has demanded prompt repatriation of every United Nations prisoner held by the Reds—hale, ailing or jailed after Communist trials.

Otherwise, he said, the United Nations will reciprocate in kind.

Dulles' statement, upon returning this week from his trip to Korea, followed in the wake of reports that the Communists intend to keep prisoners they convicted until the imposed prison terms are completed.

Dulles ordered his legal aides to study the international aspect of the issue—which could snarl the Korean truce—in search of legal ammunition to reinforce his stand.

Informants said the legal experts carefully weighed the Korean truce agreement and the Geneva Convention, which lays down international rules for handling of war prisoners. They said it was tentatively decided that both documents would be violated if the Reds held onto the prisoners convicted of crimes.

These informants conceded that, in looking over the Geneva war prisoner provisions, they found the Communists could legally insist upon completion of sentences meted U. N. prisoners while under captivity.

But, they said, in such cases the country holding the prisoners must notify their government and identify them.

The Communists have made no move to inform the U. N. Command of any such detention plan and, accordingly, could be charged with violating the Geneva pact.

Overriding the Geneva Convention, however, is the detailed truce agreement signed with the U. N. by both the North Korean and Communist Chinese represent atives.

This agreement makes no mention of the right to hold onto prisoners convicted of crime. It specifies that all prisoners are to be freed.

Yanks To Stay Several Years, Stevens Says

SEOUL (AP)—U. S. Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens said today he believes American and other Allied troops will remain in Korea "for several years."

Stevens then left for the United States by plane after an eight-day visit. He came with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and took part in talks with President Syngman Rhee.

A few hours before his departure, Stevens visited Freedom Village to greet returning U. S. prisoners of war.

"We are getting all the information we possibly can from all returning POWs about those soldiers who are missing," he told reporters.

"We are getting a fair amount of information accumulated, but we can only take whatever action the government deems appropriate at the proper time."

Stevens referred to stories of American prisoners jailed by the Communists for "some so-called infringements of the rules."

Longshoremen Are Split Over AFL Expulsion

Sentiment Divided On Move To Fight Suspension Action

CHICAGO (AP)—The beleaguered waterfront union, facing loss of its AFL affiliation, today was reported closely divided on just quitting the AFL or stringing along and hoping for the best.

The 22-man Executive Board of the International Longshoremen's Association was reported almost evenly split.

Charges that the ILA is infiltrated with racketeers and hoodlums led the AFL's Executive Council to recommend yesterday that the ILA be suspended at the AFL's convention in St. Louis starting Sept. 21.

AFL council recommendations are almost always carried out, since the council is composed of the AFL's top leaders.

The ILA group met all afternoon yesterday trying to decide what to do, and charted another huddle today. Eight of 22 ILA board members were reported to favor just pulling the union out of the AFL and assuming an independent union status.

Nine ILA board members were reported to favor trying to live up to AFL council cleanup demands and somehow to avoid AFL convention. The five other ILA members were reported teetering between the rival ILA factions.

Josph P. Ryan, 69-year-old boss of the ILA for the past 27 years, who holds an elected lifetime job as ILA president, tried to smooth out any idea of a rift within the ILA leadership. He said the ILA group's only thought was to speed cleanup procedures in time to avoid the imminent suspension.

Appointed General Chairman

McGrew Named To Head Red Feather Campaign

Cutler A. McGrew will head the 1953 United Appeals Campaign as general chairman, it was announced today by David J. Isaly, chairman of the United Appeals Campaign Committee. Mr. McGrew, who resides at 546 Delaware Ave., was manager of the J. C. Penney Co. store here for a number of years prior to his retirement earlier this year.

Charles E. Sherer will serve as assistant chairman and division heads who also will serve as vice chairmen are Robert W. Fay, industry; Robert Kibbey, business; Robert T. Mason, special gifts and professional; Mrs. W. A. Dennis, residential; schools and organizations; Mrs. A. B. Augenstein, county. In keeping with the United Appeals policy of appointing campaign leaders, Sherer will take over the general chairmanship for the campaign next year.

Plans for the campaign, which will be held in October, are well under way and chairmen are busy setting up committee meetings and the organization of workers for the drive.

Preliminary work includes a survey of the business district in which names of employers and employes were obtained in preparation for the listing of pledge cards and other campaign details.

CUTLER A. McGREW

The survey was conducted by the 20-30 Anns, Boy Scout and Council of Jewish Women earlier this summer. Other pre-campaign plans include a solicitor training course for workers.

Serving with Mr. Isaly on the campaign committee are Mrs. Dennis, Miss Martha Luke and Mrs. Augenstein.

Plane Smashes House, Kills 9

5 Children Among Dead in Montreal

VILLE JACQUES CARTIER, Que. (AP)—A Canadian Air Force jet fighter crashed into two homes last night, killing five children and two women in the houses and the two airmen in the plane.

The charred bodies were taken to the morgue in Montreal, just across the St. Lawrence River from here. The civilians were identified as:

Mrs. Marcel Bourassa, 30; her two children, Michel, 6, and Ginette, 2, and her mother, Mrs, Emilien Fournier, 57. They were in Mrs. Fournier's house.

Pierre, Colette and Normand Lavoie—5 years, 4 years and 2 months old, respectively. They were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Omer Lavoie, residents of the other house which the plane hit.

The Air Force withheld the names of the plane's crew.

Witnesses said the pilot of the plane, a CF100N all-weather fighter, tried to lear the two houses but could not reach an open field beyond.

Flames roared through the two houses and trapped the occupants inside. The houses were leveled within minutes.

Fresh Cabinet Crisis Hits Italy

Piccioni Abandons Efforts on Coalition

ROME (AP) — Attilio Piccioni said today that he has abandoned his efforts to form a middle-of-the-road government and end the Italian government crisis.

The 61-year-old Christian Democrat's statement came as a complete shock to Italian political circles. He had been expected to name his cabinet today.

Instead Piccioni, the party's deputy leader, told newsmen:

"I had thought, following the latest consultations, that it would be truly possible to create an active and profitable collaboration (among center parties).

"I was forced to realize with sadness the impossibility, insofar as my leadership is concerned, of positively concluding this task. As a consequence, I have asked the president of the republic to accept my renunciation to the task of forming a government."

Airline Official's Wife Critical After Nine-Story Plunge

NEW YORK (AP)—The 36-year-old wife of an airline executive put on a bathing suit early today and dived nine stories from the roof of her apartment house into a swimming pool with four feet of water, police said

The woman, Mrs. Laura Mae Creighton, blonde mother of three, was taken to Coney Island Hospital in critical condition.

Patrolmen pulled Mrs. Creighton from the pool, attached to the fashionable Brooklyn apartment building where she and her family live.

Her husband, Thomas Creighton, treasurer of Eastern Air Lines, and their three children were in the ground-floor apartment at the time.

No one had an official explanation for the woman's action.

SHOOTS AT CARS

CLEVELAND (AP)—Juvenile authorities today held a 15-year-old Painesville boy accused of driving throughout Summit County in a stolen car and taking pot shots at other cars. Police said the shooting spree might have resulted from his reading of the turnpike slayings.

Appeal Issued For Nurses To Combat Polio

An appeal for nurses to care for polio patients at Children's Hospital, Columbus, was received Tuesday by the Marion Chapter, American Red Cross. The appeal, which came from Eastern Area headquarters at Arlington, Va. emphasized the need and added that the need for additional nurses at the Cleveland City Hospital is anticipated.

Miss Clara Todaro, nurse recruitment chairman, and the chapter office are contacting local nurses in an effort to help in the emergency.

More County Fair Entries Announced

About 25 entries were received this morning by Clifford Campbell, secretary of the Marion County Fair Board, at his office at the Veterans Memorial Coliseum.

Campbell, whose office opened this morning, said that many entries had been received in the mail, and many more were being received now that the office was opened.

He reminded entrants that his office will be open Thursday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and on Saturday from 9 a.m., to 9 p.m. The deadline is Saturday and no livestock or poultry entries will be accepted after that date.

Income Doubles Outgo

Congressional Pension Plan Financially Sound

WASHINGTON (AP)—Remember the "bundles for Congress" which poured in on unhappy senators and House members after they voted themselves a pension system in 1942?

The indignation was so outspoken that Congress repealed the law just six weeks after it was passed.

But the lawmakers gamely tried again in 1946, enacting another pension plan for themselves as part of a general congressional reorganization in the La Follette-Monroney Act.

And the 1946 idea has worked so well, Sen. Monroney (D-Okla) said today, that contributions to it from the legislators' salaries have totaled more than double the retirement benefits paid out.

In seven years of the program's operation, members of Congress have paid 2¼ million dollars into their retirement system, while one million has gone out in pension checks.

Monroney said in an interview that there was little doubt the congressional pension plan would not be actuarially sound except for one thing:

"We in Congress usually are extremely reluctant to retire as long as we are physically able to carry on the work.

"So, many senators and House members hold on to their seats and continue paying into the retirement fund at a time when most other men are enjoying the pensions they have built up over the years."

He didn't name any names. But a case in point might well be the oldest senator, Theodore Francis Green (D-RI), who will be 86 in October.

Green was first elected to the Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

Discover Fruit Tree Protection

LONDON (INS) — British scientists have discovered what they believe to be a fool proof method of protecting fruit trees from spring frosts.

The Horticulture Research Station at East Malling, Kent County, after 16 years of experiments believes the answer is a "water-spray."

Dr. W. S. Rogers, head of the department of Pomology (science of fruit growing) declared that trees and plants should be sprinkled — the water being allowed to form icicles, which prevent the frost from harming buds and blossom.

Rogers explained that as water cools to freezing point it gives out heat. He said that 2,000 gallons of water at freezing point, turning to ice, produce as much heat as 16 gallons of boiling water.

Already some Kent County fruit growers have installed sprinkler systems, but complain of the high initial capital outlay.

Dr. Rogers' only answer to this is that an orchard, like a house, cannot be heated cheaply.

RED SAILORS TOUR LONDON. Grave of Karl Marx, father of modern Communist philosophy, was first stop on embassy-arranged London tour for visiting Soviet sailors.

Differs From Stalin

Malenkov Is Not Averse To Employing Soft Talk

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—In his old age Stalin remained what he had always been: a professional tough guy who grabbed what he thought he could get away with. His heir Malenkov talks sweeter.

Stalin, particularly in his old age, was so stubborn that at times he looked umimaginative. Malenkov represents himself as being a little more reasonable. But there's no evidence of any basic differences between the two men.

In his long speech to the Supreme Soviet last week Malenkov never mentioned Stalin's name. Why? Perhaps to get Stalin out of the Russian people's mind and direct their attention and loyalty to him, or to suggest a break with the past.

At any rate, as a result of his toughness and his stubbornness, Stalin left his heir Malenkov with gigantic headaches: the North Atlantic Alliance and bad living conditions in Russia.

When Stalin saw his chance to grab the satellites in the chaos after World War II, he did it.

Then his Communist servants took Czechoslovakia from within. It was a job which might have been done more gradually, if he had been willing to wait.

Because of his age he may have felt he did not have time for such subtlety. More probably, with America so poorly prepared for war, he may simply have felt contemptuous of the Wests ability to stop him.

Next project: Korea. The North Korean Communists could hardly have started that war without the blessing and promised support of Moscow. This was the most naked and cynical use of Communist force since the end of the big war.

Stalin was either still contemptuous or used Korea to test the West. If the West didn't help South Korea, then there was no end to the possibilities for Stalin.

But Czechoslovakia and Korea resulted, not only in the North Atlantic Alliance between this country and Western Europe, but also in real rearmament.

The stubbornness which Stalin exhibited in his last days showed in the way the Communists balked for two years over a Korean truce. It might have been more understandable if, through such tactics, the North Atlantic Alliance was broken up. Instead, it was strengthened.

Meanwhile, Stalin was so determined on building up Russian war potential—not only planes, weapons and manpower, but also atomic development—that sacrifices had to be made in the Russian peoples' living standard.

When Malenkov took over he faced the North Atlantic Alliance, apparently restlessness inside Russia, restlessness in the satellites, and the possibility the Korean War might be enlarged to include Russia.

He started talking peace and the Communists finally agreed to a truce in Korea. But the Russians have shown, and Malenkov illustrated it clearly in his speech to the Supreme Soviet last week, that they are deeply concerned about the North Atlantic Alliance.

Malenkov tackled it from half a dozen different directions in his talk.

At the same time he made big promises of the good things in store for the Russian people. This may have been bunk. But it was soft talk. It might help him with the Russian people.

3,300,000 Bushel Corn Crop Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department forecast today this year's corn crop at 3,330,418,000 bushels and the wheat crop at 1,202,829,000 bushels.

The corn estimate is 6,083,000 bushels less than last month's forecast of 3,336,501,000 bushels, and the new wheat figure is 28,121,000 bushels more than the previous estimate of 1,174,708,000.

Department officials have said that a corn crop of more than 3,400,000,000 bushels would create, when added to a reserve of 800,000,000 bushels from previous crop a surplus supply requiring production control measures on the 1954 crop.

Harvest figures will be awaited, however, before a decision is made on controls.

The wheat crop has built up a surplus supply that already has led to imposition of acreage allotments and marketing quotas. The quotas must be approved, however by growers voting in a referendum Aug. 14.

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Emerson T. Pence, secretary-treasurer of the Portsmouth CIO Council yesterday protested closing of the Portsmouth rent control office in messages to President Eisenhower and other federal officials. Pence said the Portsmouth office should remain open because rent controls have been extended until next April in the four-county Portsmouth-Chillicothe defense area.

Calhoun denied the accusation and authorities took no action.

Gen. Patton Stamp Will Be Put on Sale Nov. 11

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first-day issue of a commemorative stamp honoring Gen. George Patton will go on sale at Fort Knox, Ky., Nov. 11.

Sen. Clements (D—Ky) announced the Post Office Department's decision.

Clements said he considers it appropriate that the Patton stamp be sold first at Fort Knox because the Patton museum is located there and because the general was one of the world's foremost exponents of armored warfare.

Aside From Politics

The net effect of Gov. Lausche's vetoes and the 100th General Assembly's disregard of most of them in the final session at the close of last week is something for politicians to estimate.

From the standpoint of ordinary citizenship however, the overriding of two vetoes in particular seems to have been especially wise, all politics aside.

First of these vetoes concerned the Wheeler bill to give increased funds to cities, counties and townships for road maintenance. These funds, to be subtracted from the state highway total, represented to many units of local government an imperative increase made necessary by rising costs. They represented, moreover, recognition by the state government that local governments have highway problems which are not going to be solved by axle-distance taxes, higher gas taxes and multi-million-dollar bond issues for new roads.

Gov. Lausche's veto of this bill, a decision which he based on engineering studies of local needs, brought him into conflict with those who are resentful of state domination in fiscal matters. He was rebutted. Engineers have made no studies of the unfulfilled needs of local government in Ohio.

The other important veto-overriding was done in the case of the Devine-Bauer-Renner-Shull bill, to investigate and control subversive activities.

This bill was designed to shift responsibility ..for investigating subversive activities from a special commission to a permanent division in the attorney general's office, cooperating with local police and law authority.

Gov. Lausche, in making this veto, explained that he was apprehensive of the possible misuse of the new authority it would create. He said he preferred to leave all responsibility to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, because he had confidence in it.

In so doing, he ignored the background of the bill's passage and the aims of its authors and supporters, who are just as anxious to prevent misuse of investigative authority as Gov. Lausche.

The governor chose, also, to minimize the menace of Communism at a time when the composure of his fellow Ohioans depends on assurance that the menace is not being minimized.

If there must be a continuing investigation of the conspiracy to overthrow the United States and there will have to be—the states should share responsibility for finding and punishing the conspirators. The FBI and the U. S. Department of Justice cannot be expected to carry the whole burden.

H-Bomb Speculation

The announcement that the Soviet Union has the H-bomb is not being discounted in the slightest degree among atomic scientists and public officials in Washington.

They are willing to take it at its face value because they know the announcement is an anti-climax in a wierd contest of pressure politics. The Soviet Union's possession of the A-bomb was the climax.

There is no longer any disposition to make light of the Soviet Union's technical or military ability. That mistake was made for the last time when its ability to withstand the onslaught of Hitler's attack was grossly underestimated in 1940.

The only thing that could have surprised the atomic scientists and public officials in 1953 would have been an announcement that the Soviet Union did not have the H-bomb. That would have been regarded so skeptically that it would have had the effect of serving notice to the contrary effect.

Whether or not the Soviet Union really has the H-bomb, the United States has been proceeding on the assumption that it would have his ultimate weapon eventually.

Canada's Best Possibility

A fifth consecutive victory for Canada's Liberals in last Monday's election is assurance of more of the kind of ldeadership provided by Louis St. Laurent and his predecessor in the prime ministry, W. L. Mackenzie King.

The Canadian Liberals have been in control since 1935. In the political spectrum used in the United States, they occupy about the same position as that occupied at the present time by the Eisenhower administration.

They are half way between the right and the left, a position of true moderation. To Canadian voters they represent the best possible compromise between the strongest contending factions in politics—the extreme rightists and the extreme leftists.

One thing about a Canadian election always gets a second thought and a second look from U.S. citizens interested in comparisons. The Canadian elections are not contests between individuals running for the prime ministry but contests between parties hoping to organize a government. They are not personal popularity contests.

Every Liberal cnadidate who won election is committed to support his party after it organizes a new government with St. Laurent in the prime ministry. A citizen south of the border—the Canadian border—can only imagine what that arrangement would mean for the United States in ferms of party responsibility.

Strange Attitude

By David Lawrence

Britain Winks at Economic Facts of Life

Malenkov's speech is an uncensored version of what the top leaders in the Soviet are thinking and saying to themselves about the Western World.

Hence it is significant that the Soviet dictator should be boasting that "one of the decisive advantages" of the Communist bloc in the world situation today "and its basic difference from the imperialist camp lies in the fact that it is not rent by internal contradictions and strife."

The Soviet leaders have only to read the American press dispatches from around the world in these critical times to get a good deal of comfort out of the dissension among the governments of the so-called "free world."

Just last Saturday, for example, the United Press sent a bulletin over its wires at 4:30 p.m. declaring that the 16 United Nations members which had fought the Communist aggression in Korea "warned the Reds that they probably would have to carry the war into China itself if the Communists break the armistice."

This sounded like tough language and an evidence of Allied unity—something that might be calculated to make the Reds think twice about violating the armistice and to give Red China in particular a cause for concern.

But exactly two hours later, over the same United Press wires, came a dispatch from London telling the Reds, in effect, not to worry about the United Nations warning.

Here is how the London dispatch began:

"A Foreign Office spokesman said tonight that, in Britain's opinion, the United Nations threat to carry the war to the enemy if the Korean truce is violated doesn't imply any advance commitments to any precise course of action."

Whatever spirit of resoluteness there was in the Allied warning from United Nations headquarters in New York was thus deflated promptly. The London Foreign Office went on to say:

"When the text of the declaration (the 6-member warning) was under discussion, her majesty's government was careful to make it clear that, in their view decisions which might have grave consequences should be taken only at the time and in full knowledge of the circumstances."

Did anybody think for a moment that her majesty's government would ever make any decisions without "full knowledge of the circumstances" existing at the time a grave decision was being made? Then what was the purpose of the palpable effort to play down and minimize the solemn warning issued at New York in behalf of the 16 nations which had been doing the fighting in Korea?

If this were the first time the foreign office in London contradicted a firm warning issued in its behalf somewhere else in the world, it would be understandable.

The British Foreign Office evidently doesn't hesitate to throw down even the statements made by Prime Minister Churchill when he isn't in London — as happened when he assured the American Congress of Britain's intent to stand with her allies in the event that aggression were renewed in the Far East.

It is inexplicable why, in the midst of delicate situations, the British Foreign Office should always interject itself in a way that must necessarily weaken the hand of the Allies as against the Communists and in effect, tell the Communists not to pay any attention to strong words that may be issued — that they really don't mean what they seem to mean.

Another example of bungling is to be noted in a dispatch from London on Monday of this week announcing that "Britain has formally put the U. S. on notice" that she will press for Red China's admission to the United Nations if the Korean peace conference is a success.

Then an outline is given of what the British would consider a "success" — namely, a pledge by the Communists for "free elections" in Korea after a three-to five-year "neutralization" period.

This is a strange way to start out a negotiation — by telegraphing the enemy that the attitude of a principal ally, the United States, in opposing Red China's admission to the U.N. is really of no consequence.

Maybe the British officials haven't discovered the facts of international life as Congress sees it.

Congress is on record as being ready to withdraw from the U.N. when Red China goes in.

Something for Sundays

By TRUMAN TWILL

It says here in a press agent's blurb that National Dog Week starts Sept. 20. That's Sunday.

On that Sunday morning, God willing, I'll get out of bed a little later than usual for the beginning of my day off. On the other hand, I'll get out a little earlier than I'll want to because it will be the beginning of Dog Day at our house.

No one knows how our three dogs can tell when it's Sunday. But they never make a mistake. They put on the Sunday pressure at the first stirring of household activity and never let up until things simmer down again on Sunday night.

They help with shoe strings and beg for toast. They tremble with anticipation of the first going out of doors, to walk down to the lane to pick up the Sunday paper.

No matter what the weather happens to be, they are inseparable companions of the head man all day. On snowy, blustery afternoons in midwinter, they curl up in the snow on the leeward side of a brush fire.

On humid days in July, they stretch out in the cool shade of a bush. While they, never lack attention during the week, Sunday is their special day.

Last Sunday, we built a manger for the sheep to eat out of next winter, the four of us. We sawed and nailed up a contraption suitable for two dozen woollies to eat from, side by side.

Every step of the project was superintended thoughtfully by the Irish setter, boss of the works. The Dalmatian, a skittish character, was in and out of the barn on endless errands. The spaniel sat by, gravely, to make sure nothing appeared or disappeared without her knowledge.

For good measure last Sunday there also was a fourth dog on hand, a journeyman mutt with a tousled head of hair and eyes that twinkled behind a shaggy forelock.

When I was a child I was deathly afraid of dogs. I did not understand them. They always seemed to be intent on biting me or scaring me. I grew up with no knowledge of dogs or liking for them, with the exception of the one dog I had been permitted to have a couple of months — a Boston bull terrier. I liked her because she was mine, but I didn't understand her.

When I was grown up, the gulf was still there. Attempts to get on a sound footing with these most companionable members of the animal kingdom always failed.

Then came the first chance to do it the right way. Our household acquired a pup, the spaniel previously mentioned. She taught our whole family how to get along with dogs, in her infinite wisdom and cheerfulness.

After that, it was easy. Maybe too easy. There are times when the Twillery must give the impression of overflowing with sticky sentimentality about dogs. It's because the head man and perhaps some of the other inmates are making up lost time.

National Dog Week isn't until Sept. 20. It's silly to have a week for something that goes on 365 days a year if it's worth doing at all. Except that Sept. 20 would be a good time to start breaking in a new pup, to brighten up Sundays if your house needs brightening.

Stevenson Faces Showdown in Chicago

By Allen Drury

A Democratic party showdown which could decide the political fate of Adlai Stevenson and half a dozen other potential presidential candidates in 1956 is shaping up these days. It probably will come to a head in Chicago next month.

An estimated 2,000 Democrats will gather for the two-day conference starting September 14. Ostensibly, their first meeting since last November's Republican triumph is being held to give the party a needed financial and psychological shot in the arm. But friends of Stevenson have managed to time the conclave with his return from a world-circling tour.

Obviously, their purpose is to give the defeated 1952 candidate a head start toward renomination in 1956. Also, obviously, this project will not sit too well with other Democratic hopefuls, who are quick to contest the ex-governor's credentials to party leadership.

In an attempt to forestall too much open resentment at the fanfare the ex-governor of Illinois inevitably will receive, his homecoming is being handled by a "bipartisan civic committee."

His major speech, broadcast and televised, will be delivered under this group's auspices at the Chicago Opera House on the night of September 15.

These facts have aroused considerable jealousy among the supporters of such other potentials as Sens. Symington, Kefauver, Kerr, (D., Okla.), Richard B. Russell and Gov. Williams of Michigan.

They resent the way the spotlight seems to fall automatically on Stevenson

They aren't sure just what they can do about it, but they don't like it. And they're frank to say so.

Particularly they resent what one Southerner refers to as "stacking the national committee with Stevenson People." The party chairman is the Chicago lawyer, Steven Mitchell, Stevenson's choice.

Critics of the Stevenson influence at national headquarters tend to overlook the job the new staff has done in reorganizing the shattered party machinery.

Mitchell has been on the road almost constantly all over the country. Rallies have been held in New York, Birmingham and the West Coast.

Furthermore, the committee staff has devised a new plan for raising money, important since the party has a $270,000 deficit left over from the last campaign. The goal is $750,000.

To achieve it, a 300-member national advisory council has been appointed. If the plan works as the committee staff hopes, each member will be responsible for raising $2,500 and each will have five associates responsible for raising $500 apiece.

The associates, in turn, will farm out their fund - raising to 10 more persons, each responsible for raising $50.

In addition, there'll be a greater stress on the annual Jefferson-Jackson day dinners and an attempt to get them out of the $500-a-plate category and down to the $5 and $2.50 box-supper level.

Along with this goes another plan—and here the Stevenson issue comes up again.

It would be nice, headquarters thinks, to have a series of Democratic rallies at stragegic intervals over the next three years, his friends think the only logical speaker would be Stevenson. But his opponents, understandably enough, are fearful that this would deliver him the nomination on a silver platter.

This may be one of the issues fought out in Chicago. The national committee will have its first plenary session in a year and a half. Its members, two from each state and each of the territories, will decide on how extensively they intend to publicize the party in the coming months.

They also will decide whether they want to hold a "mid-term conference" in 1954, a short of halfway national convention to stir up enthusiasm. And they may make it clear how actively they want Stevenson to participate in these plans.

About Stevenson himself? One of his closest friends at committee headquarters puts it this way:

"This idea of running again is an ambivalent thing for him. He does, and he doesn't, you know? Some men want to be president, period, there's no doubt about it. But Stevenson's different.

"He's not sure in his own mind. I think he does want to rather more than he doesn't, but he isn't committing himself yet. At the same time, you'll notice he isn't saying, "I'll never run again," either. If things worked out right, so it more or less came to him the way it did last time, I don't think he'd hesitate.

"It will be up to the party, really. If the leaders are convinced he has the best chance of winning, they'll make him again. If they don't they won't."

It is possible the governor's friend is right, and that the future will unroll as simply and inevitably as this, straight into another triumphant nomination in 1956. But a number of other ambitious gentlemen, are determined it won't be so.

Their plans to prevent it may develop in Chicago next month. Which may make Chicago quite a story.

Food Poisoning

By JANE EADS

Many cases of food poisoning and food infection—some fatal—hit the headlines during the summer, often as the aftermath of picnics.

Outbreaks frequently strike without warning because the food shows no signs of spoilage. Cream-filled pastries and pork products, such as mild-cured ham, have most often caused such illness. Bacteriologists at the U. S. Department of Agriculture caution that soft protein foods, especially those which are handled in preparation, are especially subject to rapid and dangerous spoilage in warm weather and may be harmful even when they have no spoiled odor, taste or change in appearance.

In all seasons, the experts emphasize, such foods as soft custards, cream puffs or cream filling in pie or cake, cooked salad dressings, gelatin mixture, stuffed eggs or egg salads and all cooked meats, poultry and fish must be kept safely cold until they are served. They cannot stand and wait out on the table in a warm kitchen any more than they can in picnic baskets.

For outdoor summertime eating it is smart to keep such foods in insulated containers, or in closed jars or kettles packed in a box or tub of cracked ice and insulated with heavy newspaper wrapping. Food specialists suggest that instead of filling sandwiches with meat or egg mixtures you take along plain buttered bread or rolls, with the filling in cold containers, and fix the sandwiches when you're ready to eat.

The U. S. Public Health Services Milk and Food Branch says the basic trouble from food outbreaks over the years can be attributed principally to contamination during preparation or to inadequate refrigeration or improper storage. Its experts recommend the following protective measures:

1. Cook all foods thoroughly.
2. Keep all food not served immediately under refrigeration.
3. Avoid cakes and pies with cream filling during the hot weather unless kept under refrigeration.
4. Make sure of the cleanliness of all persons who prepare food as well as of all utensils.
5. Protect stored foods against rodents, mice and insects.

The difference between food poisoning and food infection is this:

Food poisoning is the result of toxins already developed by bacteria in things you eat. Reactions such as fever, nausea and vomiting come as soon as 30 minutes after eating.

Food infection is the result of eating food contaminated with certain types of organisms like salmonella bacteria, which develop toxins after you eat it.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Good Samaritan U.S.S.R. Style

A certain Samaritan, as he journeyed from Jerusalem to Jericho, came upon a stranger lying hungry and exhausted. And he was moved by compassion. Dismounting from his own beast he placed the stranger upon it to carry him where he might be fed.

He had proceeded a few steps when a company of soldiers bore down on him in great anger, and they knocked the stranger from the beast and fell upon the Samaritan. "We are arresting this man who has accepted help from you," said the soldiers.

"But why? He is in sore need. He requires pity and sustenance," said the Samaritan, greatly puzzled.

"He can't have pity and sustenance unless they are the certified Russian type," said the men.

"But pity and good will are universal impulses," said the Samaritan.

"You talk like a member of the British-American bloc," said a captain of the troop. "If a man needs good will around here he had better be sure it is Russian."

-:-

"This is a new concept in human relations," the good Samaritan said. "Surely there must be some mistake."

One of the men thereupon shot his donkey and the Samaritan demanded "Why this brutal action toward a beast?"

"The beast was a tool of capitalistic interests," a soldier explained.

"It is also a warmonger. One side, while we arrest your hungry friend! He took help from you and an example must be made of him."

"He is weak and starving. He was not conscious of any wrong-doing in accepting my aid," said the Samaritan.

"He should have read Pravda and kept informed," said a soldier, who, noticing that the donkey stirred, shot it a second time.

"Why the unnecessary brutality?" demanded the Samaritan. "The animal is in no way to blame."

"The beast is involved and automatically becomes a conspirator, a spy and a party to a plan to injure the U.S.S.R.," said the soldier. "Hold out your hands for the shackles!"

"Why arrest me? I have done nothing but show compassion," said the Samaritan.

"Your compassion has not been approved by the Presidium, and you are using a kindly instinct which has not been passed on favorably by the Kremlin," was the reply.

-:-

"Come, let us all behave like human beings. Let us feed and succor this starving man at my expense. A good deed will have been done and nobody will be the worse for it," urged the Samaritan.

This was too much. "We are arresting you, too," said a soldier, putting a third slug into the donkey. "The concentration camp awaits. Come!"

"But the road to Jericho? Is this not it?" asked the Samaritan, now greatly bewildered.

"There is no road to Jericho," laughed the captain. "The U.S.S.R. has vetoed it," the captain announced.

Faulty Teeth Cause Trouble For Air Force

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (INS) — That "hissing" sound made by false teeth can be embarrassing to any wearer. But to air force personnel—especially pilots trying to maintain radio contact with other planes—faulty dentures can be dangerous.

At Randolph Air Force base's school of Aviation Medicine, in San Antonio, a prosthodontist has been working on just this need for clear communication by pilots and radio men, control tower operators and other Air Force personnel who may wear dentures.

Lt. Col. Leslie R. Allen, head of the department of Clinical Dentistry, first started looking into the effects of dental plates on speech several years ago, when he was taking a master's degree in prosthetics at Washington University in St. Louis.

(He also holds a doctorate in dental science from Marquette.)

Special Plates

His thesis was based on a study of approximately 100 patients in the clinic there.

From St. Louis, Col. Allen went to Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington. Last year he arrived at the school of aviation medicine.

Recently he has provided his specially tailored palates for some 50 patients with dental construction work serious enough to cause speech defects.

In most cases, Col. Allen explains, the tongue will adjust itself to the new palate shape in a few weeks or months, so that the defect may not be permanent. The difficulty is that pilots and air crewmen haven't time to wait around while they relearn the alphabet.

They must be able to pronounce their letters clearly from the start. With Col. Allen's dentures, a flyer can take to the air the day he gets them.

His method was first to build artificial palates for people whose speech was unimpaired. By dusting these with powder and observing where the tongue brushed the powder off, he was able to determine a pattern for each of the consonants used in normal discourse. Vowels are not noticeably affected by the shape of the palate.

Then he proceeded to make dentures with a number of teeth missing. After dusting these with powder, he compared the consonantal patterns with those of the normal palates. In this way he could tell where the plate needed to be built up, in order to restore—or even improve—the patient's enunciation.

Trouble Sounds

The sounds that give the most trouble are "s" and "sh." On palates with strange contours they tend to produce a hissing noise which is peculiarly harrowing through a microphone. Fortunately, these patterns are among the easiest to identify.

The letters hardest to distinguish are "d," "t," "l" and "n."

For the final phase of his study Col. Allen has acquired a sonograph which projects the sounds made by the human voice on a radar-like screen. With this he will check on the fine shadings between spoken consonants.

No matter how acute the ear may be, it cannot make these subtle distinctions with absolute accuracy.

A small imperfection in speech that the ear overlooks may show up on a radio transmission as a noise like a man with his mouth full of bb shot.

Thanks to Col Allen, when a pilot with false teeth wants to report, "bombs away at zero-seven-three-six" it won't sound like a teakettle boiling away.

Sesqui Group Lays Plans for Fair Program

Marion County Story To Be Told in Parade, Style Show Aug. 26

Reports of chairmen and committees of the Marion County Sesquicentennial Committee centered on Marion County Sesquicentennial Day at the Marion County Fair, when the committee met Tuesday night in the YMCA.

One of the highlights of the fair, which is carrying out a Sesquicentennial theme this year, will be the program on Wednesday, Aug. 26, when the story of Marion County will be portrayed in a parade depicting the progress of industry, agriculture, culture, styles and community life. Featured also will be a style show which is being sponsored by the Jaycettes.

Granges, 4-H Clubs, United Labor Organizations, FFA's and other groups are entering floats and displays for the parade. The United Labor Organizations, composed of CIO, AFL, Railroad Brotherhoods and independent organized and recognized labor unions, are preparing a float which will feature an old corn planter in contrast to the modern implement of today.

A meeting of the Jaycettes was held Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. F. J. Peters, 229 Summit St. at which time plans were discussed for the stage settings and costumes. Anyone having costumes form 1803 to 1850 is asked to contact Mrs. Walter E. Hane, chariman, or Mrs. Peters.

Granges and other organizations planning to enter the parade are asked to contact Clifford Campbell, secretary of the Fair Board, or Walter E. Guthrie, secretary to the Marion County Commissioners for details on placing and other parade plans. Prizes will be offered for parade entries such as floats, oldest automobile running on its own power, saddle horses and other displays carrying out the sesquicentennial theme.

State flags are being purchased for display at the Coliseum, the downtown section of the city, school, Harding Memorial, City Hall and other places of business. This feature of the obervance is in charge of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Merchants are cooperating by contributing window space for displays, some of which are already placed. Dr. F. A. Stengel has on display in the windows of the YMCA an exhibit of lamps and medals from his valuable collection and other collectors are planning to place some of their interesting collections.

Mrs. Everett Grisby, chairman of the committee in charge of plans for the Sesquicentennial observance at the dedication of the new high school building Aug. 28th. reported on progress of plans for the day and Mrs. J. Edwin Probst, president of the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs announced plans for taking part in the observance later in the year. In November the Federation is bringing Grace Goulder, feature writer of Cleveland, to Marion for a talk on "Ohio, Yesterday and Today."

Allied Airmen May Be Detained in Red Mystery Company

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea (AP) —A liberated American soldier said today the Communists may be holding Allied airmen shot down over North Korea the past 20 months in a "mystery company."

Cpl. William H. Abbott, 24, of Jerusalem, Ohio, said prisoners at Camp Two, 50 miles northeast of Sinuiju, were broken up into four companies, one of which was not listed by the Chinese.

"The company did not participate in anything that went on in Camp 2," he said.

The prisoners inadvertantly learned of the "mystery company" when some supplies were misdirected to another company.

He said other prisoners saw and heard of many airmen passing through the Sinuiju area, which was heavily bombed by the Allies.

"They had to go somewhere," he said.

He said men scattered about Camp 2 believed the fourth company was made up of fliers downed since the Reds exchanged prisoner lists at Panmunjom December, 1951.

He said the POW's had no idea how many men were in the company.

Abbott, captured in December 1950, said he was shifted to three different camps because the Communists considered him a "reactionary," a prisoner who resists Red indoctrination measure.

Cyclist Faces Charges; Chief Warns Others

A warning to Marion bicyclists went out from Police Chief Tom Coon today following the arrest of a 15-year-old boy early this morning on five counts of violating the city's bike ordinance.

He said the youth was cited to appear in Juvenile Court Saturday morning after he narrowly missed running down a pedestrian at N. Main and E. Mill St. at 12:02 a.m. today. Police said the boy was riding at a high rate of speed while making the turn and in attempting to avoid hitting the pedestrian skidded the bike on its side onto the railroad tracks.

Charges against the youth are: having no license on his bike, having no lights or reflectors on his bike, riding at night without lights or reflectors, failure to yield the right of way to a pedestrian, and failure to have bicycle properly equipped.

Chief Coon warned that all bicycle owners and riders must obey the rules set forth in the bike ordinance and all those who disobey will be given citations. He particularly warned against riding bikes on sidewalks.

Police have now registered and licensed a total of some 3,400 bicycles in the city.

1953 Corn Crop Faces Controls on Production

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Next year's corn crop faces federal production controls, but they may be limited to voluntary acreage planting allotments.

An Agriculture Department crop report yesterday forecast this year's corn crop at 3,330,418,000 bushels — a level which would put the supply of this livestock feed gain in a surplus level. In general, the biggest U.S. crops since 1948 were foreseen.

Secretary Benson, in commenting on the corn estimate, said it was his feeling that controls of some kind would be necessary. He has invoked rigid marketing quotas on the 1954 wheat crop, subject to a vote by the growers.

Benson did not rule out the possibility of quotas on corn next year, but department officials who administer grain programs said the crop would have to reach around 3,400,000,000 bushels to make quotas necessary. The quota level is determined under a formula in farm law, using production, supply, and prospective demand statistics available next Nov. 15.

Thus a 70-million-bushel improvement in prospects in the next three months would bring the rigid rules into force, if the growers agreed to them.

The grain officials said it was virtually certain that acreage allotments would have to be applied to corn. Allotments give each farmer in a commercial corn producing area a planting share. Farmers would be free to abide by or ignore the allotments. However, only those abiding by them would be eligible for corn price supports.

Quotas are more rigid in their effect. Under them farmers would be free to sell or use only that portion of corn grown on their acreage allotments. Corn grown on excess acres would be subject to a penalty tax equal to 45 per cent of the parity price of corn.

Parity is a price designed to be fair to farmers in relation to prices they pay.

Marketing quotas would have to be approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting in a referendum.

Wheat farmers will vote Friday on quotas for their crop.

Quotas have never been invoked on corn, but have been applied in the past on cotton and wheat. They are in effect this year on major types of tobacco and peanuts. There have been acreage allotments for corn, however.

Dulles Is Skeptical Of Soviet H-Bomb

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles said today he accepts with some skepticism Russian Premier Malenkov's implied claim that Russia has mastered production of the hydrogen bomb.

Malenkov said last weekend that the United States no longer has a monopoly on H-bomb production —apparently meaning the Soviet Union knows the secret, too.

Dulles told a news conference the United States has no independent evidence that Russia has the super-powerful bomb.

Specifically, he said, American authorities have not detected evidence of a hydrogen bomb explosion within the Soviet Union, either before or after Malenkov's surprise assertion Saturday.

Lausche Will Delay Naming Taft Successor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Frank J. Lausche said today he will delay filling the vacancy created by the death of Sen. Robert A. Taft because the Senate is not in session.

Questioned about his plans for a senatorial appointment, Lausche said:

"The fact is I have given it nothing but passing thought since Monday (date of the Aug. 3 Taft funeral).

"Inasmuch as the Senate is not in session, there will be no immediate appointment. But I am not going to let it go along for any protracted period.

"I will not begin discussing who is in line. When the choice has been made, however, I shall announce it."

Probate Court Rules Church Claim Is Valid

Hearing Held in Effort To Clarify Restrictions Listed in Hoch Will

A Marion County Probate Court ruling handed down Tuesday by Judge Edward J. Ruzo held that St. Paul's Episcopal Church had a fee simple title to real estate willed to the church by the late Frederich Hoch, subject to the life interest of his widow and a nephew and his wife.

Upon the termination of the life estate interest of Mrs. Grace Hoch of near Espyville and Mr. and Mrs. Alwyn Hoch Crane of 581 Girard Ave., the net estate of Hoch's estate appraised at $141,300 following his death on Dec. 25, 1950, will go to the local church.

Tuesday's hearing came as a result of an action to construe, or clarify, filed by the church. Filing of the action came after the State Department of Taxation attempted to collect approximately $4,000 inheritance taxes on the property from the church. Under provisions as listed in Hoch's will, the church could not be sure that it would be able to keep the property.

Admitted for Probate in 1951

Background information presented at the hearing revealed that Hoch's will, which was admitted for probate on Jan. 16, 1951, included two codicils. It stipulated that he bequeathed his entire estate to his wife. Upon her death $2,500 was to go to a cousin, Clifford Hoch, who died May 8, 1952, the remainder of the estate was to go to Hoch's nephew and his wife, the Cranes.

The will went on to stipulate that upon the death of the Cranes, the estate was to go to St. Paul's Episcopal Church which was to observe certain provisions. In the event that the church violated these provisions, the estate would revert to the Marion County Children's Home, with apparently the same provisions.

Among the provisions mentioned in the will were that the church would always maintain Hoch's farm near Big Island under the name of the Enoch Hoch Farm in memory of his father; that none of the green timber in the woods be cut; that the brush growing along the fences be allowed to grow at will; that no cats and dogs be allowed on the premises; that no hunting be allowed; and that the property not be sold or encumbered.

Would Apply to Home

The court ruled that while these same restrictions apparently would apply to the Children's Home if the home ever gained possession of the property, the restrictions would be worthless as no provision had been made in the will as to what would happen if the home violated the restrictions.

In his ruling, Judge Ruzzo said that the restraints and restrictions imposed by Hoch in his will about what the church could and could not do with the property willed it were "against public policy" and therefore eliminated all restrictions.

He further ruled that as long as the church retained title to the property, the income derived from the property should be in a fund designated "The Enoch Hoch Endowment Fund" and used for the benefit of the church.

If the church should at any time decide to sell the property, then the proceeds must be placed in this fund. This was done since the court felt that it was Hoch's intention "to create a monument to his father, Enoch Hoch."

Representing the church at the hearing were Charles Harmon and William Gracely. John Clark represented Mrs. Grace Hoch and himself as trustees and executors of Hoch's will.

Other attorneys representing clients interested in the action were Paul D. Michel for Mr. and Mrs. Alwyn Crane, Kenneth Robinson for the heirs of Clifford Hoch, and Ralph Carhart for Marion County.

Senate at 69, well past the age when many men have retired. He already had had a long and varied career as a lawyer and businessman, and had served four years as governor of Rhode Islnd.

The wiry, slight New Englander shows no signs of slowing down. He often walks several miles to his Capitol Hill offices, and he has traveled all over the world as a top member of the Foreign Relations Committee. Next week he will be a delegate to the United Nations Assembly.

Incidentally, Green reputedly is one of the Senate's millionaires, so a congressional pension would seem to be of academic interest to him.

Monroney emphasized that he and the late Sen. Robert La Follette (R-Prog-Wis) pledged in 1946 to demand bigger contributions if the retirement plan was not self-supporting.

Senate and House members contribute 6 per cent of their salaries—which are $12.500 a year—into the retirement fund.

They become eligible for benefits only if they serve six years. Benefits are figured at the rate of 2½ per cent for each year of service multiplied by the average annual salary.

Members with service prior to 1946 got credit for those years if they paid into the pension fund a sum comparable to that required for similar credit under the civil service retirement system.

munjom in time to meet the delivery schedule.

Americans in the last batch delivered Wednesday were from the Changsong camp.

All previous Allied repatriates have come from Camp 5 at Pyoktong near the Manchurian border, the largest of the North Korean stockades.

Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens talked with some of the returning Americans. He told newsmen at Freedom Village, the processing center at Munsan, that every conceivable effort" would be made to get back all the U. S. prisoners held by the Communists. Later, he left for the United States.

U. N. officials said 222 Chinese Communist prisoners, the last of 5,495 to be repatriated will be delivered to the Reds Thursday, together with 1,800 healthy North Koreans and 360 sick or wounded North Koreans.

A surly batch of 2,758 Chinese and North Koreans, including 1,200 North Korean civilians, was turned over to the Reds Wednesday.

They ripped off their clothing, yelled and shouted, and sang Communist songs, but seemed more subdued than Reds freed previously.

Four returning American prisoners said escape attempts had been foiled by Chinese because they were turned in by informers in their camp.

Each released POW said the Chinese knew too much about their plans and where they had hidden supplies for the discoveries to be accidental. Each said he was either thrown in jail on reduced rations, beaten or made to stand motionless in the freezing North Korean winter cold after he was caught.

Others told of "spy rings" that worked against them. They said names of informers will be turned over to Army authorities. The men said they would testify against them if the Army held courts martial.

Others threatened to get even in their own way. Repatriate after repatriate vowed in interviews to newsmen they would get revenge against "the rats and squealers."

A Missouri soldier said he was thrown into solitary confinement for 42 days because "an American told the Chinese I was planning to kill Chinese."

The informer, said Pfc. Robert Chyers, 24, of Steele, Mo., went through the Freedom Village processing center Wednesday.

"He is not a pro (progressive) —he is a rat. He is in this group right here," Chyers declared bitterly.

"Last night at Kaesong, he was afraid to come into our room."

Chyers said the informer would "rat" to the Chinese and tell lies about fellow prisoners so that the Communists would "give him marijuana."

Pfc. John Powazi of New York City, said an informer was responsible for his being caught in an attempted escape.

"Seven of us," he related, "tried to get out but our supplies were found and we were stopped just before we were ready to go. An informer, one of the progressive rats, turned us in."

New Photo Lab Will Record Air Speed Tests

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP) — An ultra-modern photo laboratory soon will record Air Force high-speed test data that should save the country lives and dollars.

The main job of the new laboratory, at the Arnold Engineering Development Center (AEDC) near here, will be to record on film the images of sound waves, not visible to the naked eye.

For example, shock waves set up by some of the largest jet engines ever built will be filmed for future comparison and analysis by aeronautical engineers.

Taking pictures of models under simulated conditions in AEDC's huge wind tunnel, "bugs" can be detected and corrected at only a fraction of the cost of flight tests to find out the defects in the finished product—and without loss of life.

In this and many other ways, said Glenn Hanson, acting chief of the photo section of the center's instrument branch, the development of aviation will be put on film by one of the finest collections of photographic equipment in the country

Hanson gave this picture of the size, scope and output of the laboratory:

1. One machine used by the unit will be capable of recording test data at the rate of 100,000,000 frames (picture images) per second. This is believed to be the fastest picture - recorder in the world. In a movie theater, the fastest speed is 24 frames per second.

2. Another outstanding piece of equipment is a motion picture machine equipped to handle 70mm. film. The largest size used commercially is 35mm.

3. To provide the rapid and accurate service needed in its varied operations, AEDC has been equipped with the largest processing laboratory in the world outside of a metropolitan area.

For an average eight-hour day, the lab will process 3,000 feet of 70mm. film, 3,750 of 35mm., 46,000 feet of 16mm., and 6,000 feet of 8mm. This will amount to approximately 11¼ miles of linear film and 18,875 sheets of cut film in an average work day.

Hanson said that a high-speed machine will soon be added that processes film at twice the speed of ordinary machines—the first of its kind ever to be built.

When the processing laboratory is in full operation, he said, the equipment will make it possible to shoot a 1,000-foot reel of motion picture film and have it ready to project on the screen within an hour and a half.

YES SIR! I'M PROUD OF MY YOUNG SON!

He Knows What's Meant By The American Way of Life.

And He Practices It Every Day . . . He Carries A STAR Newspaper Route!

I believe a Dad has the right to be proud of a son like mine. He's just starting in junior high, but even at his age he knows what is meant by the American Way of Life. If everyone knew what it means as well as he does, the future would look a lot brighter.

And you know how he learned it? By carrying his Star newspaper route. He knows that by giving his customers good service and value received he has a right to earn a profit.

If our world is going to progress, it will do so because people in it learn to get along with each other. My boy knows that! That's why he's a newspaperboy, and that's why I'm a proud Dad!

These Days

By George Sokolsky

Money is an unpleasant subject for conversation, as every husband knows. In these days of depreciated currency, it is particularly hard to explain to a wife or to children that if prices are high, it is impossible to buy as much for the same amount of money as could be done when the dollar was worth more. Simple truths sometimes are most difficult to deal with because they run counter to pressing desires.

SOKOLSKY

It has become popular among certain of our citizens to make a distinction between money and human values, they forgetting all the time that nearly all human benefits have to be supported by money.

-:-

FOR INSTANCE, it is correct to say that every citizen should have access to hospitalization, but hospitals must have the money to operate, whether that money comes from federal, state or municipal funds, that is, from the taxpayer, or from private charity.

When the currency is depreciated, it costs more to operate these institutions.

Sen. Kerr of Oklahoma has his own ideas on the subject. I recently read a broadcast he made on "Facts Forum," in response to the question: "Are the fiscal policies of the Eisenhower administration good for our economy?"

Sen. Kerr replied that the fiscal policies of the Eisenhower administration are bad because they are designed to restore the value of the dollar.

HE PUTS it this way:

"The Republicans have always put the premium on the dollar. The Democrats have always put the premium on the value of labor, on the value of the products of the soil, on the value of the products of the mines. The only way you can make the value of the dollar greater is to make the value of these other things less."

The senator misses the point. In this connection, I should like to cite an experience that I had with money.

Back in August, 1917, I was in Petrograd and when I saw that the value of the ruble was going down, I hedged against inflation.

-:-

I AMASSED a quantity of paper rubles, the nominal value of which was $1,500,000; the actual value, after the Bolshevik Revolution, was anything you could get—perhaps $5,000 or $6,000. Who knows? Exchange was forbidden.

When I reached Harbin in March, 1918, and needed some cash to send a cable to my parents in New York, notifying them that I was alive, my vast accumulation of rubles was worth $11. After I sent the cable, I was flat broke.

When the currency of a country depreciates, the wages of labor, the return to the farmer for his produce, the payment to the storekeeper for his wares, become fictitious. Men live by barter.

In those days, I owned one chocolate bar, which cost one nickel. I shaved off thin slices with a safety razor and no one in this country, who has not lived through such a period, can imagine what value a thin slice of chocolate can have when money has lost its value.

-:-

AMERICAN soldiers in Europe during the World War II had the same type of experience with cigarets.

It is of the utmost importance to keep currency stabilized. Sen. Kerr believes that last year the American dollar was reasonably stabilized. Its value then, in purchasing power, was 53 cents.

The ordinary man on the street knows as much about his own money as the economists.

The housewife knows the difference between the same hamburger at 96 cents, 69 cents, or 39 cents a pound. To her, the 96 cents hamburger means that she cannot buy something else that she needs or maybe she will only buy one pound instead of two.

-:-

OUT - OF - POCKET economics is very realistic to the person who has to buy.

Whether the Eisenhower administration can succeed in increasing the value of the dollar is to be seen, but everybody would be better off if the dollar bought more.

The farmer does not only sell wheat and eggs, etc.; he also buys canned goods, machinery, millinery and sends his son to college. He is not only a seller but a buyer.

His medium of exchange has to go both ways. Unless his currency has value and stability, he can be caught in an economic squeeze.

The same is true of labor, of the retail sotrekeeper, of the miner, of everybody.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

ROME

Want to know why the Italian Communist party can continue to roll up votes and have a strong voice in the government despite comparative prosperity our billion and a half bucks have given Italy these past few years?

RIESEL

The Reds organize for the revolution. They don't try to sell an idea. To the contrary. When the Communist-controled General Confederation of Labor began to sell an idea and became absorbed in labor work, its leaders were bawled out by party chiefs for wasting too much time.

The Communist union officials were called to a party conference in Milan and told bluntly:

"You have too much trade unionist mentality and are worrying too much about improving the economic conditions of Italian workers while ignoring the political objectives of the Communist party."

-:-

SITTING in the background was the Soviet Secret Police official Palmiro Togliatti, leader of the Italian Communist party. The speaker was Senator Giuseppe Alberganti, a topflight comrade.

The Communists in Italy, as elsewhere on the continent, never let their own people swerve from their Soviet-set organizing schedule.

Thus the Italian Communist party had over 55,000 calls, 10,000 section groups and 96 regional federations operating during the recent election.

The party itself has 2,500,000 members. Of these 400,000 are husky young Communist leaguers (Communist Youth Federation). It decisively controls the majority of unionized industrial and farm workers — thus reaching even into the backward country districts.

-:-

CLOSELY allied with it is Pietro Nenni's left - wing Socialist party, which has over 700,000 members. Which shows a new low in gratitude.

During the war, when Nenni was in exile, he was kept alive by labor contributions, much of which came from America. Then he returned to Italy and joined with the sovieteers, through his rump Socialist group.

Nothing is left to chance by the Communist party. It's provincial organizations actually publish 48 weekly newspapers giving the line and round of duties to its people from the tip of the boot to the Alps.

Every one of these sheets has a column called "Party Life." And brother, if you're in the party and haven't done your duty by it that week your shortcomings are criticized. And that's not too healthy for long.

—:—

EACH SECTION has an "Agitation Center," equipped right down to movie projectors. Not too long ago, the party here drew priase from the Comintern for showing film shorts especially produced by the Communist movie studio people.

The villain of these shorts was guess who? That's right. That ol'debil, U.S. The story line showed the "evils" of Italy's participation in the European Defense Community (NATO).

After the movies there were talks on the functions of the "Agitation Centers" in the election campaign with special emphasis on door-to-door soliciting of the women's vote.

This is the kind of organization which won the Communists 9,000,000 votes — and the kind of activity which keeps them in control of the Italian labor movement.

-:-

IN TURN, control of labor gives them complete power over some of Italy's biggest cities and right into the national government.

For labor is the backbone of this machine. Especially industrial labor. That's where the activists come from. That's why labor is the primary target of the Communist party here and elsewhere.

As described by an observer here: "This is not a sentimental or even primarily ideological preference derived from the Marxian emphasis on the historical role of the working class which makes the Soviets commit most of their crimes in the name of the working class.

"The unions are obvious centers of independent power in industrial countries. Some of them may command places strategic in defense preparations or in war. The members of the trade unions in France and Italy are the most active and articulate section of a class long alienated from the national community."

-:-

THE RUSSIANS themselves saw this power explode when they pushed the organized workers of Czechoslovakia, East Germany and Poland, to the breaking point.

No other force could have exploded in the face of the Soviet Army and Secret Police.

So, in Italy, the Russians have built around the unions. Labor observers here still talk of the day someone tried to assassinate Togliatti back in 1948.

This is what happened within a few hours of the attack on the Communist Chief in Communist controlled Genoa:

"All utilities were cut off City buses were stalled into road blocks across key street intersections. Street-car wheels were welded to the rails. Squads of young workers surrounded city buildings and powerhouses."

The rehearsal for revolution was complete and swift.

That takes organization. And they have it brother, they sure do. I saw it—first-hand

Male Dazzlers

By Inez Robb

Men are the sensitive sex, especially given to tears ans tantrums when a woman writes on masculine rainment, which is apparently a sacred subject.

INEZ ROBB

So, to soothe the ruffled feathers in advance, let me say at once that I am taking no sides on what follows: Like Doc Kinsey, I am merely reporting.

I simply feel it is my duty to inform the congregation that fur coats for men are the dernier cri in the winter ahead.

-:-

INDEED, I will even go a step further and say that momma and poppa coats in fur are the newest thing in and for match mates.

Identical fur coats for the bread winner and the little woman are ready to dazzle the autumn fashion market.

They are a logical extension of mother-and-daughter, father-and-son, aunt-and-uncle and kissin' cousin outfits which have been so popular in recent years.

The coats, designed by furrier Leo Ritter to look like de luxe polo coats, are made of nutria.

The boys can have them in any one of four shades: honey biege, brown sapphire gray or, for formal evenings at the neighborhood movie or corner coffee pot, in midnight blue.

-:-

THESE NEW fur bennies are to the raccoon skin topper of my lost youth as Labrador mink to feline de alley. Of course, there are a few men who own mink-lined coats but they definitely are the enemies of society.

Men who would wear mink on the inside while there are yet women who can't even wear it on the outside are no friends of mine!

Tony and Sally de Marco, the dancers, have already invested in one of the Ike-and-Mike, they-look-alike sets. Frank Sinatra is about to follow suit so he can look like Ava Gardner.

But the new fur coats will also keep a bachelor warm, Mr. Ritter intimater. Dave Garroway, the gabby TV star, has at least tried on one of the fur burberries and had his picture took in it. It — the picture — certainly ought to make the folks back home feel Dave has made good in the big city.

OH, YES, how much do they cost? Around $1,250 each, and cheap at the price to be the first-est with the mostest polo coat since Paul Whiteman dropped that hundred pounds. Pearl buttons optional.

Men are coming into their own not only in the fur coat department but also in "at home" clothes. For some time now it has been an accepted fact that a woman can't sit around home in just any old clothes. She must have "at home" garments for glamorous lounging over a hot washtub and a cold martini.

Well, sir, the big news is that a line of "at home" clothes for men will be on the market this autumn.

-:-

THEY HAVE been designed by David Rappaport and Adrian, the famous Hollywood couturier who had a nervous breakdown designing clothes for women and is now recuperating by designing clothes for gents.

The at-home garment for boys is a lounge shirt to be worn with the tail out.

The lounge shirts, with tailored tails yet, are made of very fancy-pancy materials, with gold and silver threads for good measure. Let me see: They also have tailored collars open at the throat.

They are designed, I am informed, to do for the modern boy what the quilted smoking jacket did for Prince Albert.

But I thought Prince Philip already had that job.

Hospital Issue On Ballot for Crestline Vote

Special to The Star

CRESTLINE — City Council has assured members of the Crestline Emergency Hospital board that the $270,000 bond issue for the newly - proposed Crestline Memorial and Municipal Hospital will appear on the November ballot.

Plans for the proposed hospital were presented to the council and the board at a recent council meeting. The reports were presented by architect Louis F. Karlsberger of Columbus, who submitted the plans at the request of the present hospital board.

The $270,000 bond issue would provide only partially for the proposed 35-bed hospital. A campaign to raise an additional amount, up to $100,000, would then be conducted. Plans include seven maternity rooms, four pediatrics rooms, 24 medical-surgical rooms or wards and bassinets and other equipment for the nursery.

Improvement of the donated hospital site, located at the end of Columbus St., would cost $30,000, including off-street parking facilities for visitors and staff.

For the future, the architect proposes the possibility of expansion to 50 beds, not including bassinets, with provision for 12 maternty beds, six pediatric beds and 32 medical-surgical beds.

The building would be a one-floor T-shape structure with the administration center in the front-center portion of the T, completely separate from all bed areas. It would be built of brick with exterior limestone trim and would be fully fireproof. Included in the proposal would be an $18,000 elevator to haul supplies to the basement storage and kitchen areas and to haul refuse from the basement to the side of the building.

Driver Who Tore Up Ticket Is Fined Twice

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — George Cross Jr., 23, apologized in municipal court for tearing up a traffic ticket in front of the officer who issued it.

"I didn't realize what I was doing," he told Judge Thurlow T. Taft yesterday.

The apology didn't help much. Taft fined him $20 for driving 45 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone. And he added a $10 fine for littering the street with paper.

Raise Issue of Controls

Farm Problem Brought To Fore as Prices Drop

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Skidding farm prices—set against the background of a record high cost of living—brings the whole farm problem to the fore again this week.

Wheat, cotton and corn—the big three crops from which come the nation's bread, clothing, meat, milk and eggs—are at a level of surplus which under the law can call for federal crop production controls.

Farmers income this year, the government says, is running 11 per cent behind last year.

At the grocery, however, the government reports that food prices generally are only about 2 per cent lower than last year. A rise in food prices this summer helped push the government's measure of the cost of living to an all-time high.

The farmer might be getting even less if federal price supports hadn't come to his aid. In the fiscal year ended June 30, the U. S. Treasury put out 2½ billion dollars in support money, to which all taxpayers contributed.

The government holds large stocks of grain. It expects large amounts of this year's cotton crop to move under the protection of government loans.

Butter has been a well publicized government problem. Under price supports it has bought up large tonnages of surplus butter. The price of butter has stayed so high at the stores, however, that margarine men have had little trouble in increasing the sales of their product.

Now some are suggesting that the government get rid of its butter by taking a price cut—offering it at wholesale for considerably less than it presumably will go on paying dairy farmers for fresh production.

Price breaks in the commodity markets used to be blamed on the Korean War. Peace rumors were said to frighten traders.

But with a Korean truce now an actuality, this week's sharp drop in wheat prices is being laid to fear that the farmers won't elect to come under government production regulations. If they vote against this, the price at which next year's crop will be supported by the government is automatically lowered.

Traders figure the only way wheat prices could go in that case would be down.

The stocks of wheat held by the big producers—the United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia—are placed in excess of one billion bushels now. This is more than double the stocks held a year ago.

Exports of American farm products have been declining while bumper crops have been piling up.

Biggest Crop Yield Since '38 Sighted in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The biggest U. S. crops since 1948 are in prospect, the Agriculture Department reported yesterday.

But it indicated that corn production may not be so high as to require the rigid marketing controls impending for wheat and cotton next year.

The corn crop prospect was 3,330,418,000 bushels. A figure 70 million higher probably would require Secretary of Agriculture Benson to invoke marketing quotas.

Benson expressed the feeling "there will probably have to be controls" of some kind on corn. Less restrictive acreage planting allotments, and possibly marketing quotas if crop prospects go up by Nov. 15, may be ordered.

Ohio corn was forecast at 54 bushels an acre with a total crop of 190,674,000 bushels. Ohio winter wheat yield was estimated at 29½ bushels an acre with a total crop of 69 million bushels; oats 42 bushels an acre and total crop 48,468,000.

State Audit Discloses Woes

Newark's Financial Ills Diagnosed by Examiner

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A state examiner today prescribed remedies for the City of Newark's financial headache.

The suggestions followed an audit of city books for the period between Aug. 1, 1950, and Aug. 31, 1952. The state bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices made the audit pubic.

Causes listed by the examiner for Newark's financial probems included:

Failure to issue bonds to pay for improvements until long after their completion;

Failure to certify sewer assessments promptly to the county auditor for collection;

Pensions to retired police and firemen that drain away more than $40,000 annually from the city's general fund because income from the usual sources is not sufficient to meet pension requirements;

Failure of the prevous mayor to enforce various licensing ordinances, a source of much-needed revenue to the city.

The examiner praised Mayor J. W. Swank for better current enforcement of licensing ordinances.

But the examiner noted that neither city-owned parking lot nor the city-owned cemetery are self-sustaining. The municipal Airport is involved in two delinquent leases, he added.

Records for the 25-month audit period showed $51,530 receipts by the police pension and relief fund and payments of $85,354. Money was transferred from the city's general fund to meet payments, the examiner noted.

About $6,750 was transferred from the general fund to pay firemen's pensions during the period. Receipts totaled $56,943 and disbursements $67,706.

Picked up for the city by the audit was more than $2,700 as a result of findings for recovery that were paid. One contractor was overpaid $1,200 on two sewer projects. The board of education never had paid its $526 share of civil service expense.

The idea of the now-popular "10-cent store" originated in Watertown, N. Y. The headquarters of the Woolworth Co., first to enter the dime store field, is still located there.

Freddy cruised the 975.4-foot fourse in 27.87 seconds, a shade short of the record, to win the top prize of a $5,000 college scholarship in the 16th annual race. He had to best a field of 150 gravity-powered racers.

Proposals Look Good: Meany

Taft-Hartley Law Changes Suit AFL

By NORMAN WALKER

CHICAGO (AP)—The labor law changes which the Eisenhower administration tested out on Congress but never got around to recommending formally look pretty good to the AFL.

George Meany, president of the 10 million member senior labor federation, told newsmen yesterday that the reported Eisenhower plan for changing the Taft-Hartley Act seemed to promise "a definite improvement."

A proposed message to Congress was circulated among key congressional leaders just before Congress adjourned, but Eisenhower never sent it formally as his views to Capitol Hill.

The message was considered most favorable to labor. It stirred protests among business organizations, which generally have been campaigning to leave the present labor relations act alone or to stiffen its provisions.

"If the reports about the draft of the message are true," Meany told newsmen, "I feel that enactment would be a definite improvement in the law. Of course, they don't meet all the AFL demands for changing the law."

Meany and other top AFL leaders are here for an AFL Executive Council session, a quarterly meeting largely devoted to lining up recommendations for the AFL convention in St. Louis, starting Sept. 21.

Some of the AFL men said privately they believe the Eisenhower administration let the details of the proposed labor legislation sift out on purpose, and then just as purposefully arranged to have the message not delivered formally to Congress.

Meany, when asked about this, said he didn't know, but he said he felt sure that reports that Vice President Nixon was the one responsible for blocking formal sending of the message to Congress were untrue. He added that he didn't know who did block it.

Friends of Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), principal author of the present law, were most agitated by the draft message, which was later described by the White House as just a "preliminary draft." Taft died on the very day that the message reached the selected congressional leaders.

Tourist, Emigrant Cross Paths In Busy Italian Port of Naples

NAPLES (AP)—Two kinds of travelers cross paths in this busy Italian port.

There are those with American dollars in their pockets coming to visit the land of their forefathers.

And there are those who, with tears in their eyes, are leaving Italy in search of a better life.

Recently, the U. S. luxury liner Constitution pulled into port just as the 8,550-ton Argentine steamer Salta drew up its anchor. Aboard the Salta were 344 Italians, mostly women and children, beginning the longest voyage of their lives. They were bound for Buenos Aires to join fathers, brothers and sons.

From the Constitution's gangplank stepped successful Italian emigrants, or sons of emigrants, their sleek baggage contrasting sharply with the bundled packages of the Salta passengers.

The 344 Italians sailing on the Salta were the first of an estimated 100,000 to be transferred to Argentina under a program sponsored by the Inter-Government Committee for European Migration, backed financially by the United States.

Slowly they went aboard, carrying their possessions in bags, cartons, sacks and wooden boxes tied with ropes.

Concetta Canastra, leaving Italy for the first time at 65, looked off to sea with her daughter and three grandchildren.

"My son went to Buenos Aires three years ago because the 500 lire (85 cents) he earned as truck driver here was not enough. Now he has a job in a garage in Argentina. He sends us money every month. But there are still times when we do not have any bread."

Old Signora Canastra had tears in her eyes as the ship sailed.

'We cannot forget we are Italians," she said.

Find Baby Great Teacher

Infant Awes Childless Writer and Wife

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—A baby is the greatest teacher in the world.

He starts where the big-domed professors and philosophers leave off. Socrates, one of the wisest men in history, used to get his students to think about life by asking them questions.

A baby has Socrates beat all hollow. It simply puts its arms around you and you have the answer to life . . . and there are no questions or doubts left.

Even the Bible can't teach as well as a baby. The Bible says you find your life by losing it and that it is more blessed to give than to receive. These are great words . . . but they are still only words to many people.

A baby doesn't say such things to you. But the blind trust one of these squirming bundles of helplessness places in you teaches you the Bibilical truths more surely than would a thousand sermons.

The hand that rocks the cradle doesn't rule the world. It is run by the soft little tyrant in the bassinet, the autocrat in the cradle.

My wife and I, after nearly 16 years of childless marriage, recently were given for a time the care and feeding of an infant lady of five weeks.

She is variously known as "Madam X," "Little Jughead," "The Princess," and 'The Fountain."

I must say that at first sight she looked like a 100-year-old toothless woman who had been sprinkled with magic power and shrunk to the size of a shrimp. But in 15 days she has suddenly blossomed into a thing of beauty and a joy forever. She has everything Helen of Troy or Cleopatra had except hair and teeth.

In those 15 days she has taught me more of the terror and loveliness of living than 42 previous years of war and peace. When I think of the possibility of her leaving us it is like the thought of dying. My wife, Frances, feels the same way.

'I wouldn't trade four of your's for one of this baby's little toes," she said. And we count her toes 10 times a day to be sure none gets lost.

We took her to a pediatrician, who looked her over fore and aft and said, "She's an absolutely perfect baby!" As we were leaving, another couple brought in their infant, and I heard the doctor tell them, "My, my, an absolutely perfect baby!" That struck me as an odd coincidence. Within 15 minutes the same doctor had been lucky enough to examine probably the only two absolutely perfect babies in America. Must have been a red-letter day for him.

"Madame X" goes through 100 diapers or more in a week. She can dampen three diapers in five minutes and lie there with a look that says, "Wanna bet I can't make it four in a row?"

I have to laugh at parents who say, "You sacrifice a lot when you have a baby." Sacrifice what? No baby owes a grownup a thing for taking care of it. The debt is the other way.

Nothing in the universe makes you feel more self-important than a baby that depends upon you—blindly, gropingly, utterly. You are its slave, and yet know a higher freedom than the eagle.

When I squeeze and pat a long "b-u-u-r-r-r-u-u-up!" out of "Little Jughead" it is kingdom come on earth. It is more intoxicating than wine, victory or a raise from the boss. I feel more influential and powerful than an emperor.

And when she sighs, puts her little crinkly hands around my neck, and falls asleep with small puppy sounds, the troubled world fades like a dimming dream. All that life holds of awe and wonder and happiness is dozing in my arms.

O, yes, then it is time to change the diaper.

Well, I suppose all fathers make parent noises like this. But if I ran Harvard University I certainly would always keep a baby on the faculty to teach the students the real facts of life.

Ice Is Scarce In Alaska City

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — This northernmost American city, only 133 miles from the Arctic Circle, is suffering from an ice shortage.

To fill the gap—and the city's tinkling highball glasses—ice is being dynamited by the ton from an interior Alaska glacier (estimated age: 18 million years) and trucked 300 miles to the city.

Harvesting the ancient ice is a dynamite and bulldozer proposition. W. D. Fitzgerald, the city's ice house tycoon, took a boiler to the scene to thaw holes in Worthington Glacier. Dynamite blasts are set in the holes, a bulldozer scoops up the scattered chunks and they are sawed into blocks of from 30 to 500 pounds each for trucking.

The sub-arctic ice problem began developing back in April. Spring came early—and warmly. The usual ice supply is cut from frozen ponds outside the city. But of the 1,000 tons of ice cut from the ponds this year, only about 600 tons were salvaged by summer time. The short supply combined with an exceptionally warm summer to empty the ice house.

There's a premium on the long-haul, old-age ice. The price has jumped from the usual $2.30 per 100 pounds to $3 per 100 pounds. But that 18 million-year-old stuff has been proving mighty popular in the spots where folks pull up a high stool on a warm day.

75-Year-Old Ohio War Vet Reaches Home Port Again

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — Harvey E. Hecker steered his homemade 15-foot outboard motor boat into Sandusky Tuesday, ending a 4,500-mile water trip around the eastern third of the United States.

The 75-year-old Spanish War veteran exchanged greetings at the foot of Columbus Avenue with City Manager Karl H. Kugel and then remarked the roughest water was on the home stretch.

Since November Hecker has sailed down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, east across the Gulf of Mexico, up the Intra - Coastal Waterways to New York, and west on the Erie Canal. He declared he had the worst time trying to get from Cleveland to Sandusky on Lake Erie.

He finally gave up Saturday morning at Lorain and stayed there until today, when he made the last 30 miles.

Social Phone Call Is Interrupted by Fire

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Dorothy Bennett interrupted a purely social telephone chat with Lt. Carl Pelkowski of the fire department to say:

"Better send over the boys, Carl. They tell me there's a fire here."

There was. Firemen — without Pelkowski—quickly put out the flames in the utility room of the Sedgwick Tennis Club, where Miss Bennett is hostess.

The cause and the extent of the damage were not determined.

Durkin Lauds Administration

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor Durkin has defended the Eisenhower administration against criticism by the man who is taking his place as president of the AFL Plumbers Union.

Peter T. Schoemann, acting head of the plumbers while Durkin is on leave, recently described the administration's record as a "pattern of plunder." Schoemann said it attacked organized labor's "hard won" gains, public power and housing and social security.

Durkin, a Democrat, told a news conference yesterday Schoemann's charges were not "well founded." The secretary recalled that President Eisenhower has recommended broadening social security coverage and changing the Taft-Hartley law—both tabbed for congressional action next year.

Boy, 16, Killed by Circus Elephant in Kentucky

DANVILLE, Ky.—(AP) Police said no further investigation is planned in the death of 16-year-old Tommy Aldridge, reported by a circus attendant to have been picked up by an elephant and tossed over a truck.

Aldridge, of Paris, Ky., died at McDowell Memorial Hospital yesterday after having been unconscious since the accident Monday night.

Boyle County Coroner Tom Edwards last night said he had listed the death as "cause unknown."

The youth joined the Diano Brothers Circus several days ago when it played at Paris.

Farmers Vote This Week On Wheat Quotas

Farmers in Marion County and throughout the nation will vote Friday on the question of whether to accept the government wheat quotas for the coming year.

The referendum must receive a two-thirds affirmative vote in order to pass. Failure of the farmers to accept the quotas will mean a drop to 50 per cent of parity price on wheat next year.

Passage of the referendum will mean that they will again get 90 per cent of the parity price for their wheat as in the past.

Farmers in Marion County will vote in one of five locations which have been arranged according to townships. Following is the list of voting places in the county:

Marion, Grand Prairie, Pleasant and Green Camp Townships at the Marion County Production and Marketing Administration Office, 194 S. State St.

Claridon, Scott, and Tully Townships at the Caledonia council room.

Richland, Waldo, and Prospect Townships at the Waldo Township House in Waldo.

Montgomery and Bowling Green Townships in the council room in LaRue.

Grand, Salt Rock, and Big Island Townships in Meeker School.

Voting will be done from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The PMA office has sent out the quotas to some 1,902 farmers in the county and has prepared a list of eligible voters.

The Secretary of Agriculture has allocated 21,032 acres for wheat production in Marion County in 1954. There were about 36,000 acres of wheat harvested in the county this year. This was the highest acreage recorded in the history of the PMA office has been making allotments since 1941.

Lewis Speaks To Rotary Club On Europe Trip

Convention Delegate Tells of Playing Golf On Famous Courses

Ralph T. Lewis, Marion delegate to the Rotary International convention in Paris in June, gave a report of his travels at the club meeting Tuesday noon at Hotel Harding.

The one thing which stood out above all others, Lewis said, was that there are interesting people to meet no matter where a person travels. He went on to illustrate his point by giving some of his experiences while traveling and while staying at some of the spots which he visited.

Lewis, who has been a golf enthusiast for the last 32 years, told the audience of the games he played on the internationally famous courses in Ireland, Scotland, Switzerland, France, and Germany.

He said the weather over in Europe was generally damp enough to keep the greens and fairways on the courses in excellent condition. Their courses are no harder to play than American courses, he said.

Tells of Conditions

Lewis spoke on the conditions he found in the various countries he visited and said that everywhere he went, the people tried to be helpful to him.

He said the threat of war did not seem as great in Europe as it does in America. He said that some observors in Europe think there is a possibility of war in 20 years or more, but none now.

While in Europe, Lewis visited Ireland, England, Scotland, France, Spain, Switzerland, Holland, Denmark, Germany, and Italy.

He had grandstand seats for the coronation, and was only three rows from the line of procession. He said that when the queen came by, he could have "thrown an orange into her carriage."

He told of his visits to Cologne where entire blocks of the city were destroyed by bombings during the war. He said he also saw the same conditions in parts of London.

Played Many Courses

Lewis told of his experiences of playing golf at the courses of Graystone outside of Dublin, Ireland, Saint Cloud near Paris, Bern Country Club in Switzerland, Nebigus outside Cologne, Germany, and the famous courses of St. Andrews and Glen Eagle in Scotland.

He said he played some of his games in the pouring rain. He told of wearing several pairs of trousers, a heavy sweater, a rain coat, and a pair rubber boots while playing the Graystone course. Even with all that protection, he admitted, he could still feel the cold.

Lewis spent a total of eight weeks in Europe. He flew from New York to Lindon and did most of his travelling in Europe by plane.

He has received letters from many of the people he met in his trip and was expecting several others from persons who promised to write.

Lewis made a trip to Europe in 1907. He said that the sights which he had seen on his first voyage did not seem as impressive when he saw them recently, but added that the new ones he saw more than made up for the old ones.

The speaker was introduced by Odell Thompson.

Guests at Tuesday's meeting were Russell Luke, Rev. D. D. Clupper of Bucyrus, Fred Haeck of Columbus, Milan Gorby, Richard Hyll, Rev. George Setterfield of Bridgeport, O., John A. Maxwell Jr., and William H. Goodwin.

Visiting Rotarians were Joseph Packer of Dekalb, Ill, G. A. Richie of Annville, Pa., E. V. Wood of Baldwin, Kansas and George F Leatherman of Findlay.

YES SIR! I'm tellin' the world. As a newspaperboy I've earned not only money but respect . . . the respect of my neighbors and friends . . . and on top of that, I find that I've developed a pride in myself and my work.

And I've learned business knowledge that is bound to help in the years ahead. I've acquired the ability to meet people, sell my product, collect my bills. I've learned banking, bookkeeping and the need for dependability.

Bradley Busy Man as Head Of Joint Chiefs

Steps Down Saturday After Four Years Of Top Responsibility

WASHINGTON (AP)—General of the Army Omar N. Bradley's travels as top U. S. military officer—140,000 miles and 272 times to the White House in four years—come to a halt Saturday.

That is the day Bradley, 60, gives up the chairmanship of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, which he held from the beginning of Western collective defense through the Korean War.

A five-star general never retires. But Bradley gives up all active military assignment. He will become chairman of the board of the Bulova Research and Development Laboratories, Inc.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford succeeds him as JCS chairman.

Defense Department statistics released today tersely summarized the global responsibilities Bradley carried during his service of exactly four years as the nation's first regular head of the Joint Chiefs.

Beside his trips and White House visits, they list 87 sessions on North Atlantic Treaty Organization business and other top-level military meetings and briefings running into the thousands.

His travels took him to the wide-ranging theaters where U. S. and NATO troops were stationed, to Wake Island in 1950 with then President Truman for a conference with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and to Korea last November and December with then President-elect Eisenhower.

A wholly new slate of Joint Chiefs will be in office by Monday. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway succeeds Gen. J. Lawton Collins as Army chief of staff Saturday. Gen. Nathan F. Twining already has taken over as Air Force chief of staff from Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg. The last change will be in the Navy Monday when Adm. Robert B. Carney becomes chief of naval operations, succeeding Adm. William Fechteler.

Cook's Nightmare Comes All Too True

REDDING, Calif. (AP)—Maybe it was something he et.

Anyway, Tom Hoot, cook for a firefighting crew at Lassen National Forest, dreamed there was a whale of a fire.

He jumped out of bed at 3 a. m. and roused the crew. Too late he realized it was all a dream.

While he was cooking up some ham and eggs for the disgruntled firefighters, an alarm came in.

Yep, a whale of a fire.

NEW YORK (AP)—Although a few soft spots appeared in the list, the stock market held fairly steady today.

Neither gains nor losses extended more than a point and the great bulk of changes were quite minor.

Railroads weer off a shade along with chemicals. A few motors and aircrafts were lower. Otherwise the list held steady or slightly mixed in significant areas.

Lower were Southern Railway, Du Pont, American Tobacco, Chrysler, U.S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, and Radio Corp.

Higher were Montgomery Ward, American Can, Chesapeake & Ohio, United Air Lines, and Western Union.

First Year's Progress Reviewed

4-County Southern Ohio Area Feels Atomic Boom

(Editor's note: What happens when a rural area suddenly goes industrial? The Portsmouth-Chillicothe "critical defense area" has been finding out in the year which has elapsed since the Atomic Energy Commission decided to build a 1½-billion - dollar plant in Pike County. Here is the up-to-the-minute story, prepared by the staff of the Portsmouth Times.)

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Like the atomic bomb itself, the big atomic energy plant in nearby Pike County is beginning to mushroom.

On the first anniversary of the Atomic Energy Commission's new Portsmouth area, here's the situation:

Employment has skyrocketed from zero to 8,800 workers.

What once was rolling farm land now has become a beehive as construction workers swarm over the 3,700 acres where the $1,219,000,000 gaseous diffusion plant is going up.

And, outside the atomic plant area itself, small cities of trailers have sprung up, new homes by the scores have emerged, scores of new business buildings have been built and traffic has boomed in the four - county Portsmouth-Chillicothe "critical defense area."

It was on the morning of Aug. 12, 1952 that the AEC announced at Washington establishment of its new Portsmouth area as the site for its new Ohio Valley plant for the manufacture of uranium-235.

A tract of farmland in sparsely populated Pike County, just 18 miles north of Portsmouth, was selected. The 'AEC set up a new 'Portsmouth Area" and placed in charge a veteran of Oak Ridge, Tenn., Paducah, Ky., and Dayton, Ohio—Kenneth A. Dunbar.

Dunbar and a handful of assistants moved in along with George Holling, manager for Peter Kiewit Sons' Co. of Omaha, Neb., which was awarded the general construction contract.

Using a hotel bedroom as their "office," the executives began to move. U. S. Army Engineers began acquiring the Pike County land from its owners and Dunbar and Holling began bringing in engineers, subcontractors, draftsmen, clerical help and experts of all kinds to begin work on the vast project.

Now, at the end of the first year of a scheduled five-year construction project, 500 workers are employed elsewhere on design work in addition to the 8,800 construction workers at the plant site.

For the first 10 months the pay roll at the site exceeded nine million dollars. This does not include lump-sum contractors of architect-engineers.

As of July 28, the Kiewit Co. had awarded 191 subcontracts totaling $96,846,000. These included 51 construction contracts totaling $46,107,000 and 140 contracts for materials totaling $50,739,000.

So many changes have been made in the once-peaceful Pike County landscape that old - time residents of the area would have difficulty finding their old home sites today.

Old farm roads and fence rows have been obliterated. Bulldozers and power shovels have leveled the vast site.

Scores of 'temporary buildings have been completed and work is moving along on the permanent structures. Ironworkers are swarming over the framework of the process buildings.

Goodyear Atomic Corp., a new subsidiary of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. at Akron, has set up a training school for its employes who will operate the big plant when production begins on the uranium-235.

Magnitude of the plant is revealed by the quantities of materials and labor required.

An AEC statistician figured it would take 100,000 cars of a single train to haul all of the materials, making a procession 814 miles long.

The floor area of the plant will total 9,680,000 square feet, or 222 acres, plus a million square feet of temporary building floor space.

More than 14,000 engineering drawings are required—enough to cover 2½ acres.

Materials and equipment which eventually will go in the plant will cost an estimated 690 million dollars. It will require 87,000 instruments.

When it's finished there will be 3,300,000 cubic yards of excavation, 1,100,000 cubic yards of backfill, 425,000 tons of structural steel, 4,750 tons of railway rails, 595 miles of pipe, 1,065 miles of copper tubing, 4,600 miles of electric wiring, 590,000 feet of welding and 2½ million sacks of cement.

To put the multi-million-dollar plant together will require an estimated 145 million man-hours.

At the peak of construction, AEC estimates around 30,000 workers will be employed for a short time. Average employment is estimated at 17,000.

The employment roster will continue to climb from today's 8,800 to a peak about late 1954, then begin to fall of on the same charted curve as it is going up.

When construction is completed, Goodyear expects to have about 4,000 permanent employes operating the complicated gaseous diffusion process from which the raw material—uranium hexafluroide — is transformed into fissionable uranium-235 for use in atomic bombs.

Meanwhile, as the four-county area's population soars, retail sales are leading the state in percentages of increase.

Little Pike County, which previously had only a little more than a few filling stations and general service stores in its mercantile structure, is topping the state in percentage of retail gain. Its increase over a year ago has been more than 100 per cent.

Jackson County, another rural county east of the plant site, has been booming up at around 52 per cent.

Scioto County, most populous in the area with Portsmouth as its seat, has gained 34 per cent in retail sales. Ross County, the next biggest, where Chillicothe is located, has gone up 27 per cent.

Portsmouth has weathered the first year without too much displacement. But many here expect to find the second year a bit more difficult.

Bank and building and loan figures here show people not only are spending more but saving more, too. Bank debits—which reflect the rate of spending—are up 33.9 per cent over a year ago. But savings deposits now total $50,461,567, compared with $44,286,104.

Postal receipts are up 16.6 per cent, sales tax collections up 51.1 per cent, building permits up 216.5 per cent, electric meters up 5.9 per cent, gas meters up 0.9 per cent, water pumpage up 4.4 per cent, telephones up 4.9 per cent, auto titles up 19.7 per cent and freight carloadings up 57.8 per cent.

Portsmouth and Scioto County have lagged behind the others in new housing construction, but several new developments are on the drawing boards for fall.

Chillicothe was in the best position to take immediate advantage of the cry for new houses. The Brewer Heights addition just outside Chillicothe was ready to go a year ago. Soon new houses were going up.

Now many of the top AEC and Goodyear executives are living in Brewer Heights homes.

Pike County will bear the brunt of the expansion in school enrollment. County Supt. J. E. Way expects an increase of 300 to 400 pupils by September. He is looking for federal aid for erecting temporary buildings to house construction workers' youngsters in class.

Churches in all four counties—Scioto, Ross, Pike and Jackson—have gone together to put in two "mobile churches" in trailers and have set up "visitation committees" to call on newcomers and welcome them to services.

United community defense services was on the scene early to organize recreation facilities. Under Donald Van Valen, who has set up an office at Waverly, Pike County's seat, various civic agencies are combining forces to offer dances, games and outdoor fun. Kiewit and Goodyear have set up recreation departments, too.

Crime has increased along with the population gain, but police chief Hughie Rudity of Portsmouth estimated that "local punks" were responsible for 99 per cent of it.

Sheriff Burl E. Justice has found the situation similar in rural Scioto County.

During the last six months Portsmouth had a series of housebreakings, holdups, safe crackings and auto thefts. All but the safe crackings have been solved and police found they were committed by local residents.

"We think 'home talent' did the safe jobs, too," chief Rudity said.

Portsmouth police kicked out one pair who attempted to set up a downtown gambling joint, and since then there has been no evidence of organized crime here. Police authorities in the other counties report the same situation.

Traffic probably will develop, along with housing, to be the top problem in the peak construction areas.

More than 24 million dollars will be spent on a new four-lane U. S. 23 between Portsmouth and Chillicothe. That's the route most of the construction workers will travel—18 miles from downtown Portsmouth, 27 miles from Chillicothe.

Work is under way on the new highway. Bumper-to-bumper traffic now clogs it daily, particularly during the morning and afternoon shift-change hours.

The construction project has been comparatively free of labor difficulties.

The most serious work stoppage was a five-week carpenters' strike last spring. The walkout did not keep other crafts off the job, but caused a serious temporary delay in the pace of construction.

Earlier a strike of electricians over travel pay lasted several days, and later this summer gravel truck haulers quit for two days.

Most amazing statistic for the construction has been the success of the safety program. Despite the thousands of man-hours already gone by, only one worker has been killed and only a few have been injured seriously.

AEC and Kiewit officials believe their emphatic safety program has paid of. For the first six months of 1953 they reported their accident frequency rate was 1.45 per million man-hours worked. The nationwide AEC average has been 2.64, and the construction industry's average is 17.34.

BUY HOSPITAL SITE

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Sisters of Mercy of Cincinnati yesterday purchased a site for a new 350-bed hospital. Part of the 34 acres is in the suburb of Evendale.

H-BOMB NOT READY. A Soviet Army officer who fled to the west, Maj. Leonid Ronzhin, tells newsmen in Frankfurt that Russia's claim of having the hydrogen bomb are "premature." Ronzhin also said the Kremlin's entire stockpile of atomic bombs is "virtually useless" because the Reds have not perfected a means of "preserving" the bombs.

Democratic Digest Says Party Saves Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic Digest says President Eisenhower has been getting vital help from Democrats but "apparently does not feel that he can afford to acknowledge" it.

The party publication, in a leading article, "How Democrats Saved Ike From His Own Party," contended that Democratic cooperation has made "all the difference between success and failure for his administration."

Yet, it said, the President at times "seems to feel that he must appear to be giving the opposition a scorching in a manner that the Old Guard will approve."

The September issue is the second in the magazine's new pocket-size format.

Man To Mark 80th Birthday

Edgar S. Campbell To Celebrate Sunday

Open house Sunday afternoon will mark the 80th birthday of Edgar S. Campbell, decendant of the pioneer families of Marion County. The octogenarian will receive his friends and neighbors after 4 p.m. at his home on the Baer Pk. near Morral. Joining him for dinner will be his brother and sisters.

Mr. Campbell was born and has always lived on the farm cleared by his grandfather at a time when land in what was known as the "west" was purchased by sections. The home he now occupies was built by him and his wife, the former Elizabeth Ann Loudenslager, after their marriage on Dec. 24, 1902. A son, Clifford Campbell, secretary of the Marion County Fair Board, also resides on a part of the original farm and a daugnter, Mrs. Mary Rea, makes her home with her father.

In addition to farming the celebrant, in his earlier years, was a butcher and also dealt in livestock. He distributed meat to wholesale dealers with the aid of a horse and wagon. Some years ago he retired from active farming and butchering and now gives all his time to his livestock business and wool buying. Despite his years he drives his own car throughout the country on business and is regarded as a keen judge of stock and wool. Active in the affairs of the community he is seventh degree member of Grand Prairie Grange and for many years has served as a trustee of the Grand Prairie Cemetery Association.

Mr. Campbell's parents were John B. and Jane Neff Campbell. His first wife died March 9, 1932. His second marriage was to Emma Hite Jones, also deceased. He has one brother, J. W. Campbell of LaRue, two sisters, Mrs. Emma Bunnell of Marion and Mrs. Hannah Bunnell of near Bucyrus. He has three grandchildren, Julia Campbell, Dallas Campbell and Stephen Rea and in the family relationship also is a cousin, Mrs. Goldie Beck, who made her home with his parents. His grandparents were Michael and Mary Bibler who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1886.

Sunday also will mark another event in the Campbell family. On that date the celebrant's grandson, Dallas Campbell and Miss Edythe Hughes will be married.

5 New School Heads Hired in County System

One Superintendent Still To Be Named For Waldo Vacancy

Five Marion County schools will have new superintendents when they reopen on Sept. 8. The five are Meeker, Morral, Caledonia, Prospect, and Waldo.

D. T. Mills, superintendent of Marion County schools said today that the position at Waldo has not been filled but several applicants are being considered.

In other schools, Walker Huffman has replaced Norman Griggs as superintendent of Meeker School; Robert McFarlan has succeeded Norman Bernow at Morral; C. D. Pilkington has replaced Ray Harper at Caledonia; and Clyde Forry has taken over the position held by Virgil Anderson at Prospect.

Griggs, Bernow, and Anderson will teach in the Marion City School system this year. Harper's plans have not been announced. Donavon McKinney, former head of Waldo, has accepted a position as superintendent of Belleville School in Richland County.

All the positions which have been filled so far have been filled by men who have had previous experience in the county school system.

Huffman and Forry are former teachers who were promoted to their new positions. McFarlan was assistant superintendent at Morral last year; and Pilkington was head of Waldo School several years ago.

The Waldo vacancy will be filled within the next few days, Mills indicated. He said that several teaching positions were still open in the schools. He pointed out that teachers have made applications, but not in the fields in which he is short-handed.

Superintendents of other county schools are:

A. B. Augenstein at Claridon; Russel Martin at Grand Prairie; Norman C. Roettger at Green Camp; Warren Lowther at LaRue; Robert Ruth at New Bloomington; E. E. Banning at Pleasant; and Clayton Borden at Tully.

110 Bills Await Ike's Signature

President Is Busy at Denver Headquarters

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower dug today into a pouch of mail flown to his vacation headquarters from Washington and prepared to sign a sheaf of bills Congress passed just before adjourning.

The pouch containing the bills and other official business was the first sent to the summer White House at Lowry Air Force Base since the President arrived here last Saturday.

Eisenhower still had 110 pieces of legislation to act upon, and Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the Chief Executive was ready to sign some of the bills.

Action on the others will come later in the week when Bernard M. Shanley, Eisenhower's special counsel, arrives from Washington with recommendations covering the measures.

Eisenhower had no engagements scheduled today. The only other thing on the calendar was another round of golf at Cherry Hills Country Club.

NEW COMMANDER

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Air Force said yesterday Col. Charles M. Eisenhart has taken charge of Lockbourne Air Force Base, Columbus. Eisenhart succeeds Col. Lewis E. Lyle, who was transferred to the Air Force War College at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala.

Second Polish Pilot Tours U.S. Air Bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — A second Polish jet pilot who escaped to the West starts touring U. S. air bases today in the company of Col. Francis S. Gabreski, leading American air ace.

The Pole, Lt. Vladislav Javinski, will go to San Antonio, Tex., Friday.

The Polish pilot, who flew his Russian MIG15 to Denmark May 20, will be in Los Angeles next weekend to address the Polish American Congress.

The tour will also include air bases at Chandler, Ariz., and Fairfield, Calif.

Yankee Lead Reduced; Brooklyn Increases Margin

Dodgers Blank Cards 4-0; Bombers Tripped by Nats

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

The first division teams in both leagues could look at the calendar today and tell themselves, "We can still do it."

This is the second anniversary of the start of the dramatic stretch drive that carried the New York Giants to the 1951 National League pennant.

On Aug. 12 the Giants were 13 games behind Brooklyn, yet they caught the Dodgers on the final day of the season and went on to win a playoff.

The second, third and fourth place teams in both leagues go into today's contests less than 13 games out of the lead. In the National, Brooklyn is 7½ in front of Milwaukee with Philadelphia and St. Louis tied for third, 11½ games back. In the American, New York leads Chicago by 6 games with Cleveland 11 behind and Boston 12½.

The size of the leads changed in both leagues last night. The Yankees lost a full length as they bowed to Washington 2-1 and Chicago defeated Cleveland 6-2. The situation was reversed in the National, where Brooklyn whipped New York 4-0 and St. Louis edged Milwaukee 4-3.

The Boston Red Sox won twice at Philadelphia 7-6 and 7-5. Detroit and St. Louis split a pair. The Browns took the first 5-2, the Tigers the second 9-3.

The Chicago Cubs squeezed past Cincinnati 1-0, Philadelphia defeated Pittsburgh 3-0 but lost 7-4 in a game that was finally finished after being left hanging since July 5 by the Pennsylvania Sunday curfew law. The Pirates had been ahead 7-0 when time was called after 6 1-3 innings.

The Brooklyn victory was a great personal satisfaction for right-hander Carl Erskine. The Dodger ace gave up just two hits, both singles by Hank Thompson, as he beat the Giants at the Polo Grounds where he had failed five times in a row. Carl Furillo and Gil Hodges homered.

Back-to-back doubles by Solly Hemus and Red Schoendienst in the ninth gave the Cardinals their victory over Milwaukee. Stan Musial and Rip Repulski homered in the eighth, putting the Cards temporarily in the lead, but Del Crandall tied the score with a homer for the Braves in the last of the eighth.

Curt Simmons, who has shown only flashes of his early season form in recent starts, left little to be desired as he set down Pittsburgh on six scattered singles. The Philadelphia left-hander struck out four and walked nobody.

Fine clutch pitching by Walt Masterson saved Washington's triumph over the Yankees. After holding New York hitless through 5 1-3 innings, Masterson yielded a run in the seventh on a walk and a triple by Irv Noren. In the ninth, Hank Bauer and Yogi Berra singled but the Washington pitcher struck out Noren, got Gene Woodling on a line drive to short and then fanned Billy Martin. Washington has won six of its last seven games.

Boston's Mel Parnell became the first American League pitcher to win 16 games this season as he took the first game of the Red Sox twin bill at Philadelphia, but he needed help from three relief men in the ninth inning. In the second game Ellis Kinder preserved Skinny Brown's 11th victory.

Home runs made the difference in St. Louis. Don Lenhardt's three-run blow in the eighth inning gave the Browns the first game while a three-run blast by Don Lund in the opening frame of the nightcap sent the Tigers off to a permanent lead.

All-Stars Win 16-0, Move Up In Tournament

Smitty's All-Stars blasted Blue's Furniture of Upper Sandusky 16-0 Tuesday night in a quarter final tournament tilt at Galion. In the evening's opener Gorman-Rupp of Mansfield bested the Shelby Tower Vets 5-2.

"Fats" Millisor, Smitty pitcher, had a no-hitter going into the seventh but with two out Wayne Moses made the only dent in his armor for the evening when he singled. Smitty's scored easily in every inning but the fourth and sixth and were never in trouble. Leading by ten runs going into the final frame the All - Stars scored six for good measure.

Junior Gottfried started for the Blues but had to be relieved in the sixth by Dick Gottfried. Ray Culver clubbed a home run for Smitty's in the second. The Blues committed six errors. Anderson was behind the plate for the All-Stars.

Tonight, with four teams left in the tournament, the semi-finals will be played. In the first game Faultless Rubber of Ashland and Garber Printers of Ashland will tangle and in the second contest Smitty's All-Stars will take on Gorman-Rupp of Mansfield. The finals for the district tournament will be played Friday night.

VFW Dumps Alloy, G & G Stops Clark

In Tuesday night's Pony League action, VFW dumped Alloy Cast Steel 10-4 and G & G Builders stopped Clark Metal 11-8.

VFW took an early lead scoring two in the first. In the third Alloy came roaring back scoring four and going ahead. In that inning they used all their strength because no more runs were scored off Larry Coy the VFW pitcher. The Vets took the lead again when they scored three in the fourth on two walks, misplays and a single. Five runs in the sixth sewed it up. Harold Jones homered for the Vets in the final inning. Coy was the winning pitcher giving up only one hit.

Clark Metal opened its game with a four-run barrage in the first inning while G & G managed to score one but the Builders countered in the second scoring five to Clarks' two to keep the score at 6-6. In the third three walks and two singles scored three runs for the Builders putting them ahead to stay. Clark got one in the fifth and the sixth but G & G's two in the seventh gave them the winning margin.

Anspaugh was the winning hurler for the Builders. Tonight in Pony League play Clark meets Alloy and G & G will play VFW.

SHORT SPORTS

By John Short

For the first time in several years we have been cramming for an examination. Our final will come next October when the Marion Barons make their initial appearance.

Jim Hendy of the Cleveland Barons, who is polishing up plans for the local team will tell anyone willing to listen that "Once you become familiar with hockey you'll find it one of the easiest games to watch and to understand." He goes on to say he can acquaint a person with the game in five minutes of actual play.

SHORT

But in the meantime a prospective fan can fill his head with a lot of strange new terms. Defending zone, neutral zone and attacking zone and blue lines and red lines are all part of the game but we won't know their connections until we see the game played.

Riding off, poke checking and hook checking are all unforgivable and anyone guilty of pulling these tricks draws a little time in the penalty box.

Jim tells us everything is set for the local team. Directors of the International Hockey League have scheduled a meeting in Marion on Aug. 20. Main business at that meeting will be the drawing up of a schedule and other last minute details before the teams depart for pre - season training camps.

Hendy indicated announcements concerning the local entry might be made before that date.

Lions' Parker To Stick With Veteran Line-up

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — Only light drills today and tomorrow now stand between the National Football League champion Detroit Lions and their Chicago game with the College All-Stars.

The Lions will take off from Willow Run airport tomorrow afternoon to fly to the Windy City for the Friday night tussle. Coach Buddy Parker does not plan any workout in Soldier Field Friday.

Parker indicated he'll stick to a veteran line-up, both offensively and defensively.

WILL LEAD ALL-STARS AGAINST LIONS. George Morris (left), line backer from Georgia Tech., and Buck McPhail, Oklahoma fullback, will act as co-captains for the College All-Stars when they meet the Detroit Lions in Chicago, in the annual charity football game Friday night. They are shown during training at Lafayette, Ind.

Tribe Five Out of Second After 6-2 Loss to Chicago

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians, down another notch in their quest for second place, send Early Wynn to the mound tonight against Mike Fornieles of the Chicago White Sox.

Wynn is seeking his 13th victory, while the Chicagoan is bidding for his eighth.

he White Sox, sparked by Minnie Minoso's three - run homer, whipped the Indians, 6-2, last night and moved up a full game to six behind the New York Yankees, who lost to Washington, 2-1. Cleveland maintained its 11-game distance from the Yankees, but dropped five behind the White Sox.

And don't look now, but the Boston Red Sox beat Philadelphia, 7-6 and 7-5, yesterday and moved to within 1½ games of the Tribe.

Minoso's blast was the high point of a five-run rampage in the seventh frame last night. He got two other hits, one a first-inning double which enabled him to score on Sam Mele's two bagger.

Cleveland's runs came in the fifth, when Bob Lemon doubled a man across, and in the sixth, when Joe Tipton was hit by a pitched ball with the bases loaded.

All of Chicago's 12 hits were of Lemon, who suffered his 11th defeat against 15 victories.

North-South Squads Show Liking for State, Purdue

By FRITZ HOWELL

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Forty-one of the 50 players on the Ohio high school North-South All-Star football squads will scatter to 23 different colleges this fall, with Ohio State and Purdue picking up the majority of the talent.

Nine of the youngsters who will appear here Friday night in the eighth annual North-South game are undecided on their college choice.

Ohio State will get two guards, three halfbacks, one center, one quarterback and one fullback from the select group. Purdue takes a tackle, end, quarterback and fullback from the North starting lineup, as well as a halfback who is now on the North injured list.

The 25 North players chose 16 different colleges, 11 of them out of the state, while only one of the South men has made up his mind to leave the Buckeye order.

Purdue gets some of the choice gems in fullback Lee Nussbaum, end Bob Khoenle and halfback Tasseff, all of Massillon's state champions; Leonard Dawson, the state's leading passer and all-state quarterback from Alliance; and Ed Voycek, 215-pound tackle from Cleveland Cathedral Latin.

Ohio State's choices include center Tom Dillman of Middletown, quarterback Bob Lilienthal of Cambridge, halfback Hubert Bobo of Chauncy-Dover, who led the state in scoring with 323 points; Lee Williams, Springfield fullback who scored 19 touchdowns; halfback Eddie Joe Grandy of Logan, guards Bob Whinnery of Sandusky and Ernie Bell of East Liverpool; and Jim Roseboro, halfback from Ashland.

Ohio University and Cincinnati each were selected by three players, and Muskingum, Notre Dame and Miami, Fla., by two apiece, with single players going to the other schools. The players' choices:

Cincinnati—Center Gus Del Rosa of Cleveland John Adams, back Willy Hernandez of Van Wert and quarterback Paul Johnson of Middletown.

Ohio University—end Bob Gainous of Springfield, tackle Jim Nelson of Springfield and quarterback Gerard Faust of Dayton Chaminade.

Miami, Fla.—Tackle Jim Geyser of Massillon and halfback Ed Oliver of East Lverpool.

Notre Dame—End George Kraft of Akron St. Mary's and tackle Tom Zervas of Lakewood.

Muskingum—Backs Ron Apperson and Donald Coleman, both of Zanesville.

Michigan—Back Mike Rottuno of Canton Central Catholic.

Michigan State — Bill Diebel, Canton Lincoln guard.

Denison—Jim Click, Springfield quarterback.

Kentucky—Dick Waters, Washington Court House guard.

Ohio Wesleyan—Bill Eisnaugle, Jackson tackle.

The South team, coached by Jim McDonald of Springfield, and the North squad, coached by Chuck Mather of Massillon, meet here Friday night. The South has won four games, lost two and tied one in the seven previous contests.

McDonald has named Bobo of Chauncy-Dover and Blankenship of Middletown as co-captains of the South squad. Mather previously put Khoenle of Massillon at the helm of the North team.

Whitfield Falls Short In Try at New Record

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Mal Whitfield has been coming close, but just missing world records on his tour around the continent.

After vainly trying to lower the 400-meter standard for a couple of weeks, he took a crack at the 1,000-meter record last night and ran the distance in 2:21.4, just one-tenth of a second over the listed mark.

Chicago Hands Cincy Seventh Straight Defeat

CHICAGO (AP) — Cincinnati will have two chances today in a doubleheader with the Cubs at Wrigley Field to snap a disastrous seven-game losing streak.

The seventh loss was registered yesterday, the Cubs administering a 1-0 shutout. Not since early in the season when the Redlegs dropped eight straight, have Rogers Hornsby's charges done so badly. The latest loss cut Cincinnati's lead over the seventh place Cubs to five games in the struggle for sixth spot in the National League race.

Only three Redleg players could hit southpaw Paul Minner and those safeties by Gus Bell, Rocky Bridges and Roy McMillan were singles separated by more than three outs.

The game's one run came in the second. Eddie Miksis, who walked to first, advanced to second on Clyde McCullough's single and went home on Hal Jeffcoat's safety to left.

Once again the Redlegs loss was a story of good Rhineland pitching coupled with little hitting. It was the fifth shutout sustained by the Redlegs this season and their ninth one-run loss.

Public Housing Project Is Rejected in Columbus

By The Associated Press

Columbus voters, turning out in near-record numbers, yesterday defeated a big public housing project by nearly 2 to 1. In Dayton, Democrats nominated for municipal court the city's first Negro judge, recently appointed by Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

Columbus voters turned down the 6½ million dollar housing project 31,945 against to 16,487 for, in complete unofficial returns.

The total unofficial vote of 52,505 was 20,000 more than the board of elections had predicted, and more than twice as many votes as were cast in the city's previous primary election. The record turnout for a Columbus primary was 53,802 in 1943.

Dayton Democrats named Russell L. Carter, Negro incumbent, to oppose Cecil E. Edwards, Republican assistant city attorney, for municipal judge. Carter defeated Vincent M. Shields 6,382 to 3,454. Edwards was unopposed.

Director Russell C. Taylor of the Columbus Metropolitan Housing Authority admitted the vote on the housing project stymied the public housing program in the capital city, at least until Congress makes another allocation of money. The housing authority was ready to start building the 524-apartment project when a group of property owners brought a referendum petition requiring Tuesday's vote.

Others nominated in the two cities:

COLUMBUS

Mayor—Robert T. Oestreicher, Republican incumbent, and Maynard E. Sensenbrenner, endorsed by the regular Democratic organization, who will battle it out in November for the two-year, unexpired term of James A. Rhodes.

Rhodes was elected state auditor last November.

City Attorney — Chalmers P. Wylie, Republican assistant attorney general, and Richard W. Gordon, Republican incumbent. The Republican organization repudiated Gordon and endorsed Wylie. Wylie polled 19,826 votes to 16,190 for Gordon.

City council (three posts to be filled in November)—Jerry Spears Jr. (R-I), Joseph R. Jones (R), O. J. Fillinger (R-I-), Harold V. Burt (D), Jeanne M. Radow (D) and Edward Walker (R)

DAYTON

City Commission (three posts)—Edward V. Stoecklein, R. William Patterson, Henry S. Stout, Harry C. Baujan, Sam Sawaya and John C. Smith.

Public notice is hereby given, as required by Section 614-20 of the General Code of Ohio, that Ohio Edison Company, a public utility, has filed with The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio an application for authority to amend certain of its filed schedules fixing rates and charges for electric service so as to provide uniform rates throughout the territory served by the Company for industrial primary service and industrial transmission service and to substitute for those fuel adjustment clauses now on file with the Public Utilities Commission a single, uniform fuel adjustment clause to be applicable, as appropriate, throughout the territory served by the Company.

The proposed rates for industrial primary service and industrial transmission service would replace some twenty-three rates now in effect.
